Trenton Dam Is Dedicated During Colorful, Impressive Ceremony

... Big Crowd At Ceremonies Is Buffeted By Dust, Wind

By ROY CAMPBELL
Star Staff Writer

TRENTON, Neb. — Trenton Dam, another step in man's fight against the ravages of nature, was dedicated here Thursday before a dirt and wind-buffed crowd of 3,000 by the elite of Nebraska's and the nation's governmental leaders.

The dam, 21 and one-half million dollars worth of rolled dirt and rock that took close to five years and cost three lives to build, was dedicated, in effect, to a better Nebraska.

The dam's purpose is to provide flood control and irrigation, the main factors, besides sediment retention, recreational facilities, and fish and wild life.

Nebraska Senator Hugh Butler as master of ceremonies led off a list of dignitaries that would fill anybody's Who's Who in flood control in the state.

And in the background to the south of the Republican River dry winds whipped through arid and drought-stricken lands up to and past the speaker's platform situated near the base of the spillways.

More than 25,000 acres of this now dry land, however, will benefit by the life-giving qualities of the water stored behind the dam. And in this the farmers of Hitchcock County to the east and south of the dam look with hope and thanks.

Gov. Crosby made a personal inspection Thursday night of the drought-stricken area south of Stratton and expressed the hope that something could be done to relieve the situation. (That area has asked drought relief and the President has taken the matter under consideration.)

Trenton Dam itself is close to two miles long and, according to its engineer, is the largest of the four located on the Republican River system. Swanson Lake, backed up by the dam, will be nine miles long and already has 19,000 fish stocked in it.

Trenton Dam is the fourth of several projects intended to tame nature's nastier moments and was built in connection with the Pick-Sloan Plan as part of the Greater Missouri Basin Development program. Sen. Butler called the dam "just the beginning to what it is going to mean to the state and nation to protect the lives and property of the people in this fertile valley."

And still he said, this is only a start, because other projects are to be completed in the future. He pointed to the proposed Red Willow dam, part of the Frenchman-Cambridge project, to be built on the Republican River and west of the river for Cambridge.

Every acre of land under irrigation, the senator said, even though limited to the valley, adds tremendously to the benefit of the area because it insures feed for those living in the higher tables. He said the flow of water in the Missouri River will be uniform throughout the year because of the big dams now on the river especially Fort Peck and means plenty of water for all purposes.

Irrigation Emphasized

Main speaker for the ceremonies Thursday was Fred G. Aandahl, assistant secretary of the interior, in charge of water and power development, who said the Trenton Dam is "another unit in the completion of the water development program of the United States."

He emphasized the value of an adequate water supply for irrigation, for opportunities that lie ahead in the future.

Nebraska Senator Dwight Griswold called the dam a great step in the progress of the state. He was backed by Rep. Carl Curtis who said "it is better to irrigate one more acre of land than to curse the drought."

'Better Place To Live'

Gov. Robert Crosby said "today we have harnessed a river to make Nebraska a better place to live," reminding the crowd that the drought was a tribute to the people of the state because of the courage they showed in going through such trying periods.

To Harry Strunk of McCook, president of the Republican Valley Conservation Association, went honors for being one of the greatest influences in promoting construction of the dam. Strunk called the dedication another great occasion in which a dam has stilled the water of a river that in 1935 created such great destruction.

He gave thanks to Providence and to the great men in Washington, the Bureau of Reclamation, Army Engineers who built the dam, and the Fish and Wild Life Service.

The ceremonies Thursday started with a crowd of close to 3,000 but hard winds and dirt drove most of the crowd to the top of the huge earthen structure where later Miss Trenton, Mrs. Shirley Fanning, and Miss Republican Valley, Mrs. Gene Pade, cut the ribbon that officially opened the dam.

Memorial Service

Four enlistees were sworn into the Army during the ceremony. They were Roy Crapson, of Wauweta, Robert Schmoker of Oberlin, Kan., Elden Zinn of Benkleman, and William Chambers of Arapahoe. Col. John R. Dey of the Army Chief of the Nebraska Military swore them in. Ellis Armstrong chief engineer of the Trenton project, said a memorial for the three men who died during construction of the dam. Most were Nyle Bryant of Wyoming, who died when a truck tipped over on him; Corbin Hanson of Nebraska, who died in a fall from a scaffold; and Buel Gilbert of Arkansas, who died when a log dropped on him.

Others speaking during the ceremony were Dr. G. E. Conrad of the University of Nebraska, E. P. Stine, assistant general manager of the Burlington Lines; Neil Hall, of the Nebraska Reclamation Association; Avery Balson, a native Nebraskan now of Denver in charge of the Seventh Reclamation District which includes the Trenton project; and H. E. Robinson, as district manager of the Kansas River district.

Sixteen bands representing 16 towns participated in the ceremonies.

JOHN B. QUINN

Quinn Named By FOA For Europe Study

A Lincoln public relations consultant, John B. Quinn, Thursday was appointed by the Foreign Operations Administration to make an economic survey in Europe, the Associated Press reported.

Quinn will study ways and means for European countries to increase their dollar earnings and shorten the gap between their imports of American goods and their own exports to this country, the FOA said.

Quinn, who will leave Sunday to spend four or five weeks in Europe, will be paid $50 a day. He will visit Lisbon, Madrid, Rome, Paris, Brussels, Vienna, Geneva, London, the Hague, Frankfurt and Bonn.

Following a conference with FOA officials Thursday, it was revealed that Quinn will study trade, investments and other programs and will also investigate European efforts to promote American travel in that area.

Quinn was Harold Stassen's campaign manager in Nebraska in 1952 before the national Republican Convention. Stassen is head of the Foreign Operations Administration.

Ronin Named Chairman Of County Day

County Judge Herbert A. Ronin was elected general chairman for Boys and Girls County Government Participation Day Dec. 2, at a general meeting of members of sponsoring groups.

Represented were city and county school officials, American Legion Posts and Auxiliaries, the 40 & 8 and 8 & 40, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce and county officials.

Judge Ronin succeeds Judge Harry A. Spencer, who has been chairman the past four years and declined re-election.

Wilford F. Sanders, deputy clerk of the District Court, was elected to serve his fifth year as treasurer.

Elected to serve with the officers on the executive committee for Boys and Girls County were:

Harry Heaton, Waverly, representing rural schools in the north half of the county.

Carl W. Shafter, Panama, representing rural schools in the south half of the county.

Edward Voubst, Teachers College High School.

The Rev. Conrad J. Marrama, Cathedral High School.

Charles Thone, Lincoln public schools.

Allen Walker, Roca, other Lesson posts in the county.

Mrs. Glen Payne, Lincoln Lesson Auxiliary.

Representatives for the County Legion Auxiliary Posts, Junior Chamber of Commerce and Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce have not been named.

Attlee Smooths Over Anti-American Outburst

Labor Party Nays Motion That U.S. Troops Get Out

By TOM OCHILTREE

MARGATE, Eng. (AP)—The Labor Party Thursday attacked the military alliance between Spain and the United States, but rejected leftist demands for withdrawal of American military forces from Britain.

The party's conference voted continued support to the NATO plan of collective defense against possible aggression. A foreign policy resolution drafted by moderate leaders was adopted without a record vote. It said: "The Labor Party believes that close co-operation with the United States of America is vital to Britain and the commonwealth as a whole."

Former Prime Minister Clement Attlee, who appealed for an end to the British-American wrangling, almost before he had time to resume his seat, a woman delegate shrilly declared American troops here were damaging British life by their "Coca-Cola, comic books and contraceptive" influence.

Russia Started It

Attlee's remarks, however, tended to smother the more extreme anti-American outbursts. He reminded delegates that Russia started the cold war. He also expressed belief that, "as time goes on, it will be found impossible to keep the peoples of Eastern Europe under the iron grip of the Kremlin."

Referring to the recent snarl in relations with the United States, Attlee said: "We deplore the witch-hunting campaign in the United States. We should also guard against making hysterical outbursts against the United States."

At the same time he was particularly critical of U.S. refusal to recognize Communist China. Resolutions asked that Spain be barred from membership in any organization like NATO or EDC.

Stevenson Reports To President

Ike 'Interested' In Pact With Russia, Says Adlai

... Stevenson Reports On World Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson reported Thursday that President Eisenhower is "very much interested" in the idea of a non-aggression pact with Russia as a means of relieving tension in Europe.

The 1952 Democratic presidential candidate had lunch at the White House and said afterwards that Eisenhower was giving close study to the possibilities of an East-West non-aggression agreement, along with other methods of abating the cold war.

Stevenson proposed a non-aggression pact in his recent Chicago speech and brought the subject up again when he called on the President to report on the world tour he took earlier this year. Secretary of State Dulles also was present at the White House conference.

"If Russia was unwilling to accept the proposal," Stevenson said, "it would be rather apparent that her peaceful professions aren't as sincere as they might seem."

It would put the Russians on the spot with respect to their intentions, he added. He then went on to say he thought Eisenhower feels somewhat the same way about it.

Stevenson spent half an hour with the President and Dulles, then sat down to a stag luncheon in his honor attended by the President and 16 other high government officials. After eating with "great restraint" what he called a very fine lunch, Stevenson conferred with the President in the latter's office for another 15 minutes.

'Very Alert'

He said Eisenhower, whom he found "very alert to the problems confronting our country around the world," asked a number of questions regarding individual areas Stevenson visited.

Stevenson said Soviet Russia is constantly accusing the West of having an aggressive bloc in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and claiming that West German rearmament is a threat to peace.

He said that by offering guarantees, the West at least would clarify the atmosphere regarding Russian intentions if those guarantees were rejected.

Tactic Change

Lederman said: "If something doesn't happen within the next 48 hours, we'll have to change our tactics."

Lederman refused to amplify on this statement.

Earlier, the board of police commissioners met in a closed session with Col. Hugh Waggoner, head of the Missouri State Highway Patrol—the state police—but declined to reveal what was discussed.

When asked if the kidnapping and mysterious bombings which have occurred in Kansas City in recent weeks were the subject of study, a spokesman said: "Yes, in a general way."

Search Joined

The kidnapping has resulted in an offer from the nation's 120,000 mailmen to join in a search for the missing boy.

The offer was made by the postmen through their union president, William C. Doherty of the AFL National Association of Letter Carriers, who said: "The mailman is the family friend. In many cases he has saved lives by alertness. They'll search diligently for poor little Bobby."

It was not known if the offer would be accepted by the agonized parents of the boy who was spirited away from an exclusive Catholic school by a red-haired woman Monday morning.

Under a doctor's care, both parents were near collapse from the emotional strain of waiting for word that has not come. Mrs. Greengrass left her home for the first time since the kidnapping to attend Catholic mass Thursday morning.

East Coast Ports Idle; Ike Invokes T-H Law

... White House Sets Up Inquiry Board

NEW YORK (AP)—The great port of New York lay paralyzed Thursday as President Eisenhower invoked the Taft-Hartley Law against a multi-million dollar East Coast waterfront strike.

At best, however, the strike of 60,000 longshoremen was expected to run into next week—at an estimated cost to the shipping industry of $1,500,000 a day. Ports were idle from Maine to Virginia.

The White House set up a board of inquiry, giving it until Monday to report back. Then the way would be clear for a strike-ending court injunction.

The rackets-ridden I.L.A.—kicked out of the AFL only last week—launched the strike at midnight Wednesday to back up wage demands on deep water shippers. The union's very future was at stake.

Its leaders promised to return to work if and when there's an injunction.

"Until that time the strike will continue," said Patrick J. Connolly, ranking I.L.A. official since President Joseph P. Ryan was hospitalized a few days ago with an illness.

No Return

Connolly said the Federal Mediation Service called from Washington in the afternoon to sound out the chances of the I.L.A. returning to work at once without waiting for an injunction.

"I told him we would not return to work until an injunction is issued," the strike leader informed newsmen.

It was the first time in his eight months in office that President Eisenhower had made use of the Taft-Hartley Law, to ward off a peril to national health and safety President Truman invoked the law 10 times—once against the I.L.A. in 1948.

By land and by sea, I.L.A. pickets roamed the desolate 350 miles of New York piers, where bustling activity had given way to eerie quiet and sun-splashed loneliness.

Only military ships were being worked.

Pickets Respected

Tugboat crews were respecting I.L.A. picket lines. As a result, the big luxury liners, Liberté and Constitution, docked by themselves—a tricky and ponderously beautiful maneuver even in perfect autumn weather. Their motor launches helped guide them to their piers.

Twenty-eight ships were caught at their berths in New York. Countless others rode their anchors in indecision in the harbor itself. Sixty-eight steamers out to sea in an armada-like formation Wednesday to escape the strike.

A strike leader announced in midday:

"The ports are tied up completely from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va. Nothing is loading."

3 Nebraska Watershed Projects OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three small Nebraska watershed treatment projects have been approved, the Agriculture Department announced Thursday.

A total of 42 projects in 24 states were given federal approval at the same time.

The Nebraska projects include Dry Creek in Red Willow and Frontier Counties; Indian Creek in Gage and Lancaster Counties; and Upper Salt-Swede tributaries of Salt Creek in Lancaster and Saunders Counties.

The department said local sponsors have been obtained for all of the projects, none of which cover only a few square miles.

The department said local sponsors have been obtained for all of the projects, none of which cover only a few square miles.

In addition the department has 23 other proposed projects under consideration but does not yet have local sponsors for them. The department expects eventually to develop 65 small watersheds under the program.

Driver License Renewals Hit Midway Point

At mid-point in the 60-day renewal period for driver licenses, 39,000 out of an estimated 65,000 Lancaster County license holders have obtained renewed operator's certificates.

Noting an influx of renewals during the last several days in September, County Attorney Treasurer C. A. Berg said probably a number of persons mistakenly thought Sept. 30 rather than Oct. 30 was the deadline.

After Oct. 30, driver's licenses are not renewable only upon payment of a $2 fee, but the license holder also must take a driver's test.

Highway 79 Work Will Start Soon

Lincoln And Osmond
Firms Get Contracts

Three contracts totaling more than $130,000 have been awarded for reconstruction and relocation of Nebraska Highway 79 for six and nine-tenths miles south of Valparaiso.

Central States Bridge Co. of Lincoln won two contracts and Theisen Brothers of Osmond, one. State Engineer L. N. Ress said Thursday.

Central States bid $70,779.23 for building two new bridges and guard rails and $38,442.32 for culvert work. Theisen were granted a $29,453.90 contract for grading and detour preparations. The three contracts total $138,707.45.

The Theisens expect to begin work within a week, Ress said. According to terms of the contracts, culvert work is to be finished within 90 working days and grading and detour work within 100 working days after Oct. 19. Bridge and guard rail construction is to be done within 100 working days after Nov. 2.

Bids From 18 Firms

Eighteen firms bid on all or part of the work at the Sept. 24 letting. One bid on the culvert work was lower than Central States bid but was effective only if also awarded the grading contract.

During construction, traffic on the stretch one and one-half miles south of Valparaiso will be detoured one-half mile west of the present highway. This county road will be graded and graveled by the Theisens. The mile and one-half section will be rebuilt on the present location while the south part will be relocated and not detoured.

Sidewalks and crosswalks in Valparaiso removed during construction will be built under terms of the culvert contract.

During 1951, traffic on the seven miles of Highway 79 south of Valparaiso averaged 815 vehicles per day including 60 trucks. A group of 20 residents of the area met with Roy Robert Crosby in July to protest the relocation project. At that time the governor told the group that the State Highway Department "sufficiency rating system" listed the road in emergency condition.

Patrol Report Shows Drop In Speeding

The state safety patrol in reporting activity for August showed that speeding complaints declined to 288 from the 297 in July and 908 in August last year. The complaints brought 746 convictions with 138 cases continued and three dismissed.

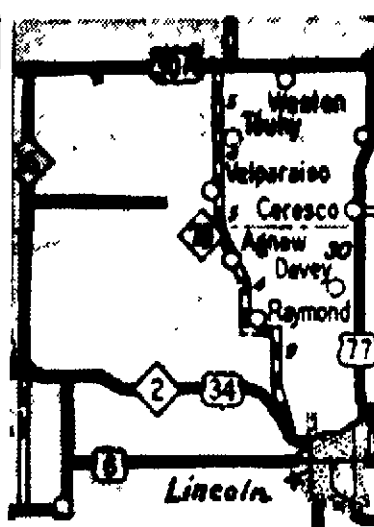

Fines, which go to local schools, amounted to $12,330 and five operators licenses were suspended.

Drunken driving complaints dropped to 69 from the 84 in July and 93 last August. Convictions numbered 52 with 16 cases continued. Fines were $7,075 with 8 jail sentences, 44 operators licenses suspended and four cars impounded.

Total hazardous violations numbered 1,366 of which 1,129 were convicted paying fines of $24,563. Non-hazardous violations numbered 179 with 127 convictions and fines of $927.

Truck drivers numbering 181 were given summons for various violations of which 40 continuances were granted and 141 paid fines amounting to $3,463. Nebraska truckers were required to increase capacity fees paid by $2,239.

The patrol also reported arresting nine runaways, eight for car theft, with nine cars recovered. Two parole violators, one escapee and nine AWOL soldiers.

Highway 79 Bids Let

Construction will start soon on Nebraska Highway 79 for six and one-half miles south of Valparaiso. The first mile and one-half will be reconstructed with the remaining stretch to be relocated. Theisen Brothers of Osmond expect to begin work on grading and detours within a week, State Engineer L. N. Ress announced. Central States Bridge Co. of Lincoln will construct two new bridges and guard rails and build the culverts. (Star Map)

Fagan 'New Ag Bureau Board Chief

Arthur Fagan of Route 3, Lincoln, was elected president of the Lancaster County Farm Bureau board at the annual convention of the county Farm Bureau group Thursday night.

More than 170 men and women attended the convention and banquet at the Lincoln hotel.

Other officers:
Elmer Bohl, Martell, vice-president.
Mrs. Viola Rockenbach, Walton, president of women's chairman.

Delegates to state convention:
Glenn Ehlers, Rock, chairman.
Melvin Finkbe, Easle.
Wendy, Hickman, alternate.
Carl Riedel, Walton, alternate.

Henry Thaden—Grant
Fred Retzlaff—Lancaster
William Rockenbach—North Platte
Carl Retzlaff—Stevens Creek
George Elrod—Denon
Dobert Krause—Hubland
Lavern Rockenbach—Yankton Hill

The convention also passed 11 resolutions to be forwarded to the state Farm Bureau Federation committee to be presented to the state convention. They are:

1. 90 per cent of parity commodity credit loans should be limited to $15,000 by the protection of the family.
2. Automatic import controls on crops with acreage allotments or marketing quotas.
3. Rural mail carriers should be required to carry mail six days a week and holidays be limited to Christmas, New Year, Labor Day and Independence Day.
4. State and county road maintenance departments should keep heavy gravel off the center of roads as a safety measure.
5. More attention should be paid to sediment and bacteria count in milk and less emphasis on consumer milk building construction that create a financial burden for the tenant and small farmers.
6. Nebraska should require the percentage of dressable protein be shown on the tag of all commercial feeds sold in the state.
7. All commercial feeds should have an open formula—3 percentage of each ingredient which should be listed.
8. Such as food packages to Germany and wheat to Pakistan be continued and be given to other UN nations.
9. Continue support of 90 per cent of parity after April of 1954 for dairy products.

Secretary-treasurer Robert Thompson of the State Farm Bureau Federation, speaking to the convention, praised Gov. Robert Crosby for his stand on equalization of state taxes.

"Definite progress is being made," Thompson said in regard to the state taxation problem. He pointed out that "ownership of property does not indicate how well you can pay taxes."

The Farm Bureau official openly hinted a tax base other than property is necessary to equalize the assessment of taxes. Speaking of the conflict over the proposed partisan and two house state legislature, Thompson said, "whatever comes out of this could very well determine the outcome of the welfare of rural people of Nebraska for a number of years to come."

In PURSUIT of HAPPINESS

By J. GORDON ROBERTS

In our civilized society we have no basis for resolving conflicts which do not involve criminal behavior.

In many primitive societies, a Council of Elders resolves many conflicts not involving criminal action.

Any neighborhood provides a wide field of potential conflict outside of actual crime. Too often people have no recourse regarding intolerable imposition save through assault and battery, which is of course prevented by law. The result is terrific wear and tear on the nerves.

On the other hand, some accuse neighbors of possessing their own hostile feelings which they deny exist within themselves. These unhappy people feel themselves surrounded by enemies in whatever neighborhood they may live.

At the time of their discovery by the white man, Eskimos had a novel method of bringing hostilities to a head. The parties in a dispute were brought together in a community house to continue their argument for all to hear. An insulting match ensued.

Whoever got in the last word presumably won. But the shouting spectators did not.

Southbound Pelican Takes Breather Here

The Lincoln Park Department is giving a friendly boost to a white pelican on its way to warmer lands.

The pelican, apparently too weak to continue its migration south with its companions, dropped off at Oak Lake.

Parks Supt. James Agar and Asst. Supt. Glen Suiker spotted the bird Thursday morning.

The pelican, believed suffering from anemia was deloused and then taken to Pioneer Park, where it was given a good meal of fish.

Thursday night, Agar reported the pelican was "perking up."

Low Cost Negro Housing Project Fund Meet Planned

Plans are being developed for a meeting Oct. 7 at which funds will be raised to start a low cost housing project for Lincoln Negro families.

This project, according to George Randol, president of the North Side Improvement Association, will start with about $20,000 for three low cost homes. The home sites, said Randol, will be in an area around 45th and Y.

The Oct. 7 meeting, to be held at 12 noon at the Chamber of Commerce, was decided upon, said Randol, at a recent meeting of stockholders and others associated with the North Side Improvement Association. Present at that meeting, said Randol, were Victor E. Anderson, R. E. Campbell, Ervin E. Peterson, James A. Strauss, Carl Witt, Harold Evans, Charles Ledwith and Randol.

"Very Happy"
"I was very happy," said Randol, "at the enthusiasm and response shown at the meeting. I really believe we are going to accomplish something."

Some 30 to 40 interested individuals will be invited to the Oct. 7 fund raising luncheon, said Randol. At the last meeting, he said, it was decided the three homes to be constructed with the funds raised should be in the $7,500 bracket and require about $500 down and $55 a month payments.

While the three homes represent a good start, said Randol, there is actually a need for about 40 low rental units. Randol cited a continuation of cases where four Negro families with 15 children have been evicted and of 11 people living in three rooms.

Quarters Found
Quarters for one Negro family, said Randol, were found on the morning of eviction, only after moving another couple out of their quarters and in with their in-laws.

Since its organization some months ago, the Association has acquired one home on R for four Negro families and is considering purchase of another home for one family occupancy on Vine. Randol stated he now has 15 applications for rental properties to fill.

Rather than acquire additional older homes, however, the Association now feels that it would be better to concentrate on new construction, Randol stated.

"The people we are trying to help," said Randol, "have as much pride as anyone and want new homes just as much as anyone else. Many of them are fine, substantial people with good incomes but cannot meet high down payment requirements."

Arranging the Oct. 7 meeting will be Randol, Campbell, Anderson and Ledwith, Association secretary-treasurer.

News Around The Globe

Strauss Bares A-Spy Case

WASHINGTON (INS)—A long-secret atomic spy case was bared Thursday, revealing that a Norwegian with access to U.S. radioactive material gave Russia information vital to production of jet aircraft engines.

Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Lewis Strauss disclosed the existence of the case and Congressional sources said it involved a technician employed in the Norwegian defense research establishment at Lillestrom, Norway.

U.S. military authorities believe the stolen data helped Russia to perfect jet power plants for the latest type Soviet MIG fighter planes.

Outlook Improved

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The outlook for stockmen has improved markedly with prices more stable and meat consumption up 40 per cent from a year ago, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said Thursday.

Benson arrived in Salt Lake City for the semi-annual conference of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Church. He is a member of the church's ruling body, the council of twelve apostles.

Sweep Is Awaited

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS)—The United States called on Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold Thursday "to sweep clean" all undesirable elements from the U.N. Secretariat in his promised cleanup of the 4,000-member staff.

Rep. James P. Richards (D-S.C.), U.S. member of the U.N. Administrative and Financial Committee, said the American government awaits "with interest" Hammarskjold's plan to reorganize the secretariat. He added: "We fully expect the new broom to sweep clean."

Trieste Is Key To Italian Participation In EDC

By RYMAN MORIN
ROME (AP)—Premier Giuseppe Pella indicated Thursday that the Italian Parliament may not be in a position to ratify the proposed six-nation European Defense Community (EDC) treaty unless the dispute with Yugoslavia over Trieste is "justly settled."

Germany, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg under a joint general staff.
Pella did not say, in so many words, that Italian ratification of the EDC treaty hinges on a prior solution of the Trieste controversy.
Parliament Debate
His opinion on this was asked in a direct question. He replied: "Why do you put your question in a pessimistic and negative form? I would prefer to emphasize that ratification of EDC will be infinitely easier if we find a solution to the problem of Trieste."
A Parliamentary debate is in progress on foreign policy.
"We had our first look at the question of EDC just Wednesday," he said. "There are some sections of Parliament that tie it in closely with the question of Trieste. They say that if the one is not solved, nothing can be done about the other."
"Some connect Trieste with our entire foreign policy."

The territory, centered around the strategic port of Trieste, has been an object of dispute between Italy and Yugoslavia ever since World War I. It is now divided into zones under the stewardship of the United States, Britain and Yugoslavia.
When this formula was reached at the Paris peace conference in 1948, former Sen Connally (D-Tex.), a member of the American delegation remarked "there is more government to the square inch in that town than any place in the world."
'Valid Document'
In 1948, a joint statement by the United States, Britain and France said the free territory eventually should be returned to Italy. This was before Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia broke from the Soviet sphere.
Pella said Italy holds to that declaration.
"We consider the tripartite declaration of 1948 as a valid document today," he said. "It was drafted in the spirit of international law."
"It is a human document, as well, because it takes into account the desires of the people living on the spot."
Italy has proposed that the problem be resolved by letting the people in the territory vote on the question in a plebiscite. The Yugoslav government has rejected this proposal.
Temperate Answers
"We suggested the plebiscite," Pella said, "as a means of implementing the tripartite declaration. We proposed it to prove to the world that Italy is not afraid of a free judgment by the people of the entire territory of Trieste."
He said it is very urgent that a solution be reached, but added, "when I say it is very urgent, I am speaking relatively."
His answers to all the questions in the interview were highly temperate indicating his government does not share the views of the extremists in Parliament, he said.

"As for the government, we feel that EDC and Trieste are relevant elements in our foreign policy. Obviously each of them reacts upon the other, but they are not as closely connected as some sections of Parliament would like to make them."
New Health Board Slates First Meet
The newly created State Board of Health will meet at the Governor's office next Monday morning to organize.
One of the first duties of the seven-member body will be to name a state health director, and fix the salary.
The 1953 legislative act setting up the board placed a ceiling of $12,500 on the director's salary.
Dr. E. A. Rogers, who has been acting director since the resignation of Dr. Frank Ryder of Grand Island in 1951, has said he would be an applicant for the new appointment.

When It Is Needed

Gov. Bob Crosby of Nebraska wrote to the President recommending that Hitchcock County in the southwestern corner of the state be declared a drought disaster area, along with any other counties which justify similar classification.

To which the President replied that Mr. Crosby's letter had been referred to the Civil Defense Administration presided over by former Nebraska Gov. Val Peterson. In turn, it develops that the Agriculture Department will be called upon for information before any decision is reached.

The need for thorough investigation is recognized, but in areas suffering from drought the pertinent facts do not take a great deal of time. At the same time information was given out at the governor's office of the answer to his letter, Sen. Thomas Hennings of neighboring Missouri sent a letter to the President to speed up action in Missouri and other drought-afflicted areas. The secretary of agriculture, Sen. Hennings said, has no drought program.

Missouri is much harder hit than Nebraska. Reports from sections of Missouri say the drought there is the worst in Missouri's history, more serious than it was 20 years ago. If the program approved by Congress shortly before its adjournment is to do the job intended, there cannot be the delay now being experienced. The drought-hit farmer cannot wait for feed for his livestock. He must have it immediately or it does no good.

Flexible Interest Policy

One might receive a wide variety of answers if he were to stop the first 100 people he met on the streets of Lincoln and ask them what they understood by the phrase, "hard money."

The administration, a staff writer on the Christian Science Monitor reports, apparently has shifted ground in its "sound money policies," although the Treasury denies that any change has taken place. A reduction, in fact since the Eisenhower administration came into power, reversing its program of higher interest rates is described as falling in line with the Treasury's "flexible interest policy."

Whatever the new program of lower interest rates may signify, it is a move in the right direction. Conversely, one of the most unfortunate mistakes made after Mr. Eisenhower was sworn into office was to move in the direction of higher interest rates without any more apparent study of the effects of the new policy that was being initiated.

"How much this move (a short-term Treasury note at a lower interest rate) will affect interest rates in general is something which will be determined only by time," the Monitor reports. "But it is seen as significant that this move by the Treasury follows rather closely a public admission of administration concern in the slowdown in home-building. . . . Low-priced housing has been particularly hard hit, and builders have been protesting the shortage of mortgage money for months. This slowdown is of particular concern to the administration because housing is one of the nation's basic industries and its welfare closely tied in with the economic well-being of the whole country. . . . As for the national debt, now standing at something like $272 billions, if the government should reduce interest rates sufficiently to bring down its own interest payments there, it would be money saved toward that urgent goal of balancing the budget.

The absurdity of the higher interest rate initiated by the Treasury was that it tended to nullify all the efforts in other fields to achieve economy. Uncle Sam is a debtor, and he was hiking the fixed requirements of debt service at the same time he was calling upon administrative agencies to reduce their spending.

It is a long way from Washington to Lincoln, but Lincoln is interested in this matter. It is about to borrow $1½ million dollars for water plant expansion. Repayment of the debt over a period of 30 years will be that much easier to the extent that favorable interest rates can be procured. Every dollar saved in interest over the life of the bonds issued to finance water plant expansion is a dollar saved to the community and to its water users.

A Political Tip

Rep. Carl T. Curtis, 1st congressional district, having directed a coast-to-coast blast against Oveta Culp Hobby's federal Social Welfare Department, has returned home to rest between rounds and presumably, also, to test home response on "How'm-a-doin'?"

We Nebraskans like Oveta personally. She is a nice little Texas lady and we always have the latchstring out for her. But we hope we are never reduced to the point of conducting our principal business with her department. And at a time when we are enjoying reports of a 1952 total state income of $2.14 billion, an all-time peak, with everyone working to make it even bigger, the forthcoming political issue is not going to be Oveta's department. It is going to bear upon what barriers, if any, are to be thrown up in the path of our ever progressing development of resources and the well-earned prosperity that goes with it. If Mr. Curtis wishes to dwell on an issue he should arise, clear his voice, and give a clear recitation on his position in respect to reclamation, public power, the agriculture program and taxes.

We All Suffer

Our hearts go along with little Robert Greenlease, wherever he may be, and our prayers join those of his stricken parents that he may be returned unharmed.

Of all crimes, kidnapping stands by itself for cruelty and non-justification from any point of view. It is the work of persons who have forfeited or never attained their place in human society, and against whom no en- line of defense should be withheld. Truly their crime is against all society. The dangers that surround little Bobby and the agony of his parents reside today in the souls of all of us. And the whole thing is so unwarranted.

No Understanding

The shock that attends the realization that even a few of our GI POWs have turned their backs upon free America, embracing, with so little time and effort on the part of their captors, the slave doctrines of Communism, brings us to the need for self-examination.

Back of this phenomenon is an educational failure resulting in the prisoners holding so little comprehension of free institutions that no yardsticks existed to measure the fallacies of their erstwhile Red teachers. Too much in America is taken for granted. Too many great truths have been reduced to slogans. Too many toys with the word, not the essence. Education must go deeper than that lest artful plays on words direct too many of us into paths that will lead us not toward our claimed objective, but into unwanted pitfalls.

A-Bomb Or Not, Armed Services Play It Even

WASHINGTON—The Joint Chiefs of Staff held a highly significant secret meeting last week to determine the basic question of military preparedness against the hydrogen bomb. Result: They came up with the same old time-honored solution—the "balanced force."

In nonmilitary language this means that the Army, Navy and Air Force will balance their strength. They will carve up military appropriations between them more or less even—Stephen. Regardless of whether Russia is stronger in the air or on the land, the American Army, Navy and Air Force will continue to be such competitors between themselves with each wanting to be just as strong as the other.

This vital, basic question was brought up in last week's meeting by Gen. Nathan Twining, Air Force Chief of Staff.

Twining argued that the Joint Chiefs couldn't start allocating men and materials to the three services until they had decided on the over-all "concept" or strategy.

They must face the fact that Russia has the hydrogen bomb, General Twining pleaded, and this must drastically change the old concept of 1954 military needs.

Twining, however, was snowed under with protests from the Army and Navy. Gen. Matt Ridgway, efficient, eloquent Army chief, argued: "We can't give up traditional but tested old weapons for untested new weapons." Adm. Arthur Radford, new chairman of the Joint Chiefs, joined him. It's always remotely possible that atomic weapons may be outlawed, Radford argued, just as mustard gas was outlawed after World War I. This would eliminate the whole atomic arsenal in one stroke, said Radford, and leave the U.S. short-handed if conventional weapons are abandoned.

In the end, Twining was overruled, and the Joint Chiefs fell back on the usual solution—namely, to split the military budget three ways, giving the Army, Navy and Air Force an equal share of the men and materials.

NOTE—"This kind of military planning," Robert Nathan, genius of the old War Production Board, once remarked when battling with the generals, "is like a tailor who cuts up a bolt of cloth and uses as much cloth for sleeves as for pants. A tailor who did that couldn't stay in business. Yet our military have been doing it for years."

BRITISH JUNK SYSTEM
The British Joint Chiefs of Staff have taken the lead in junking the old "balanced force" concept of an equal-strength army, navy, air force. Instead, they have put more of their military dollars into air power and atomic weapons.

"It would bankrupt us to keep all three of our services built up to the same size," one British general told American friends the other day. "The Russians have no navy to speak of except submarines. Therefore, why should we spend a fortune on building up our navy—except for submarines."

"We can use the money on air defenses, the bomber fleet and an atomic arsenal."

British point out that the French generals got caught napping in World War II when they placed too much defense hope on the Magot line. The Germans promptly developed a new concept of war—the blitzkrieg—and sent panzer divisions with fast-moving troops right around the Magot line, conquering France in a few days.

The British Joint Chiefs point out that they don't want to get caught relying on the tactics of the last war to meet the threat of the hydrogen bomb.

They also point out that just as England dominated the seas in the 18th century, so the nation that dominates the air today will dominate the world. Yet Secretary of Defense Wilson cut out most of the U.S. defense cuts on the Air Force, then tried to sell the public the fantastic myth that the Air Force would be stronger than ever with $5 billion less.

CAVALRY STILL GOOD
Inside fact is that Wilson got his advice from Army generals and Navy admirals. What we didn't realize is that these two branches of the service have always stuck to their traditional weapons, and frequently it has taken Congress to change them.

In 1928 it was Congressman Ross Collins of Mississippi, a member of the Military Appropriations Committee, who insisted that the Army begin using modern tanks. He actually inserted an appropriation in the military budget by which the Army had to build tanks even though many generals were opposed, still clung to the infantry.

As late as this year one cavalry general still claimed the Korean War proved what a horrible mistake it had been to abandon the cavalry.

In 1914 Gen. Arthur Murray of the Coast Artillery wanted the Army to take over the submarine instead of the Navy because the defense of the U.S. coastline was the job of the coast artillery. Again in 1935 it was Congressman Collins who put an appropriation in the military budget requiring the Air Corps to build flying fortresses, the forerunner of the long-range bomber. As late as 1940, just before Pearl Harbor, the Army's general staff wanted only six of these bombers.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Rising Court Issues Hard Test For Warren

WASHINGTON—A great deal is being written about the momentous issues the Supreme Court must pass on in the months to come. They go to the roots of the deep cleavages in American life over segregation of the races, civil liberties, big business versus small business.

But one of these issues in particular, is entangled deeply in law and in politics. That is the right of four states to the great wealth of offshore oil lying off their borders. Those states are Florida, Louisiana, Texas and California.

Twice the Supreme Court held that this oil belongs to the federal government. Twice Congress passed measures turning it over to the four states. President Truman vetoed the first such bill. President Eisenhower signed an offshore oil bill passed in May.

The nomination of Gov. Earl Warren of California to be chief justice of the United States is bound to enhance the interest in both the politics and the law behind the oil dispute. By an interesting coincidence, on the day that Attorney General Herbert Brownell requisitioned a military plane to fly overnight to California for a conference with Warren, the state of Alabama filed a suit against the federal government, and the governors of the four states. This took the legal form of a motion for permission to file a complaint in the high court.

In an 88-page printed brief, Alabama alleged not only that the money from the oil should go to all the states and not just the four but that other rights of Alabama would be jeopardized if the court does not overrule the action of Congress. Specifically the brief argues that if the claims of three of the four states, of Florida, Louisiana and Texas, to "historic boundaries" nine nautical miles out into the sea are allowed to stand, Alabama's fishing industry will be penalized.

In fishing on the high seas, the brief states, Alabama fishermen are subject only to regulation and licensing imposed by authority of their own state or their own national government. Moreover, it adds, even when fishing within three miles of the shore of other states, they may not be subjected to discriminatory regulation by reason of their Alabama residence and certainly may not be excluded altogether.

But if the offshore rights of the states are upheld, then Florida or Louisiana can demand a license from Alabama fishermen. That is the implication of the Alabama claim and in the view of many lawyers it goes to the heart of the federal system.

If Warren had not been nominated to the court, he would have been a defendant in this suit. As a man of unquestioned integrity, he will almost certainly feel that he must disqualify himself when the complaint of Alabama, which it is expected will be joined by West Virginia, is heard by the tribunal Warren has been a vigorous advocate of ownership by the four states of the oil wealth off their coasts.

The summonses in the case were put in the mail for the four governors four days before Warren's appointment. This means that he had the summons on his desk as he left Sacramento to take the second most important office in the gift of the American people.

The federal government, and the four state governors if they wish to participate, have 60 days to file an answering brief. That time may be extended. So it is unlikely that the court will determine whether to consider the merits of the Alabama case before January. While the court could decide it in chambers without open hearings, the importance of the issue makes it probable that there will be oral arguments.

Warren is the first chief justice since 1796 to take his place on the bench prior to confirmation by the senate. Presumably he will be confirmed in January. The case involving segregation in America's schools is set down for argument on Dec. 7. It is most unlikely that the court will give final decision on any of the major issues up for settlement before the new year. And the new chief justice could, of course, disqualify himself from making a vote if he should choose to do so.

As Mr. Dooley remarked when the century was young, the Supreme Court does follow the election returns. And also the court tends to be remade in the image of the administration in power. This process begun with Warren's selection may be carried much further in the coming three years.

No one can prophesy what the high court and above all the chief justiceship will do to a man. But Warren has many qualities that would seem to qualify him for the judicial role. He has never, so far as outward signs reveal, been infected with the itch for power that afflicts most presidential candidates. The serene temperament that has armored him against the intrigues of victory and defeat should stand him in good stead.

By MONA B. PARKER

Harry Mott is one Nebraskan who believes in mixing the old and the new, when a touch of the modern is worthwhile and to his own advantage. But he was thinking of others, too, as he watched the liberal application of Scotchlite safety tape to the team and wagon he has been driving around Dawson county for 57 years. "Got to do something to save these automobiles," was his comment.

Mr. Mott lives south of Lexington just across the Platte River bridge and he frequently makes the trip home after dark. That's why he thinks the glowing red tape that now adorns the neck yoke, wheel hubs, tail-board and wagon corners of his rig is a good thing.

"You wouldn't believe it now," he added, "but back about 1915 my old wagon and team were a welcome sight to a lot of motorists. I pulled dozens of 'em out of the mud on the south river road. . . . Now they just lean on the horn and whiz by."

He's been hit a couple of times, too, making him all the more safety conscious. "Once a Ford plowed into the back end. Rammed my wagon's rear wheels up against the front ones. Did $135 worth of damage to the Ford. Cost me forty cents to fix up the wagon."

We are going to do something about my charley-horse.

What it is that we are going to do, nobody seems to know, because charley-horses are like distant relatives—you never know you've got them until they move in. After that, all you can do is massage them—the charley-horses, not the visiting relatives.

A charley-horse is a peculiar kind of cramp in one's muscles in legs or arms, and usually afflicts only athletes, which ought to exempt me. The only remaining resemblance between an athlete and me is that we both button our shirts in front. This charley-horse, I think, is a stubborn descendant of older, more active days.

It stalks me at night. Not regularly, but occasionally. Finding me relaxed in sleep, it leaps upon me, and twists the calf of my leg into as intricate a mess of knots as any beginning Boy Scout class ever concocted. When this happens, there is only one remedy. It is to draw the leg up quickly so that my hands can reach the contorted calf, and begin rubbing, prodding and punching.

Mrs. F. has been an interested and sympathetic bystander for many years in my nocturnal bouts with this muscular malfeasance. On the night before last, however, she became a participant, which is the reason we are going to do something about the charley-horse.

She became a participant because, by the law of odds, the charley-horse finally caught up with me when I was sleeping, against my custom, on my left side. This put Mrs. F. directly in the line of trajectory when I jerked my knee up in order to get at the cramped muscles.

That kind of charley-horse strikes quickly, jerking your muscles into a painful twist, and when it comes in your sleep, reaction is immediate and sudden. Mine was. All in one motion the cramp came. I jolted awake, said, "Oooh!" jerked my knee up sharply and reached for the tortured calf. In my frenzy, I scarcely noticed that my arcing knee-cap established momentary contact with something soft, which yielded the right-of-way instantly.

Only later did I recollect that there was a loud grunt of sleepy protest at that same instant, followed by a thud on the floor. I was too busy with the charley-horse. Soon the cramp relaxed, however, and I became aware of angry noises. Then a light flashed on. Mrs. F. was standing, rubbing opposite ends of herself.

"This one," she said, indicating, "was where you kicked me, and this one"—indicating again—"where I hit the floor." She advanced upon me menacingly.

It is hard to run when the calf of your left leg is tied up in knots.

That is why we are going to do something about my charley-horse. What it will be, I do not know—but I have a suspicion that I may be sleeping with the Dack-hounds soon. I wonder if dogs understand about charley-horses?

If he could help her with the task.

"To some, I know this strange appears."

One day said he.

"But every time a waitress nears."

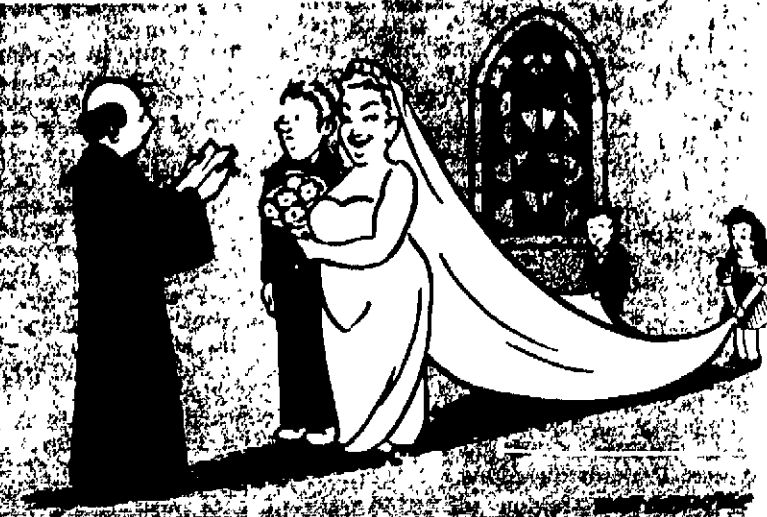

One face I see

Geneva Theater And Its Dry Small Fry

If there is any such thing as "playing it safe" in any phase of news reporting, W. H. Plourd does just that in Nance County Journal accounts of local weddings. He used to be, he pointed out, that a newspaper would sometimes say the bride was beautiful. Then another beautiful gal would get married without being called beautiful and the whole family would get indignant. "We've attended enough weddings now," Mr. Plourd insures himself smugly, "that we know all brides are beautiful, and we just let it be taken for granted."

York for two days in the role of typical sight-seer. They heard the usual quaint remarks about tourists sunbathing the roofs of their mouths gazing at the tall buildings, but the Register editor found that not to be true and for a good reason. "There's not enough sunlight penetrating the brick walls to perform such a trick."

Third-graders in Ceresco are getting a portion of their learning firsthand, and reporting impressions thus gained in the News columns.

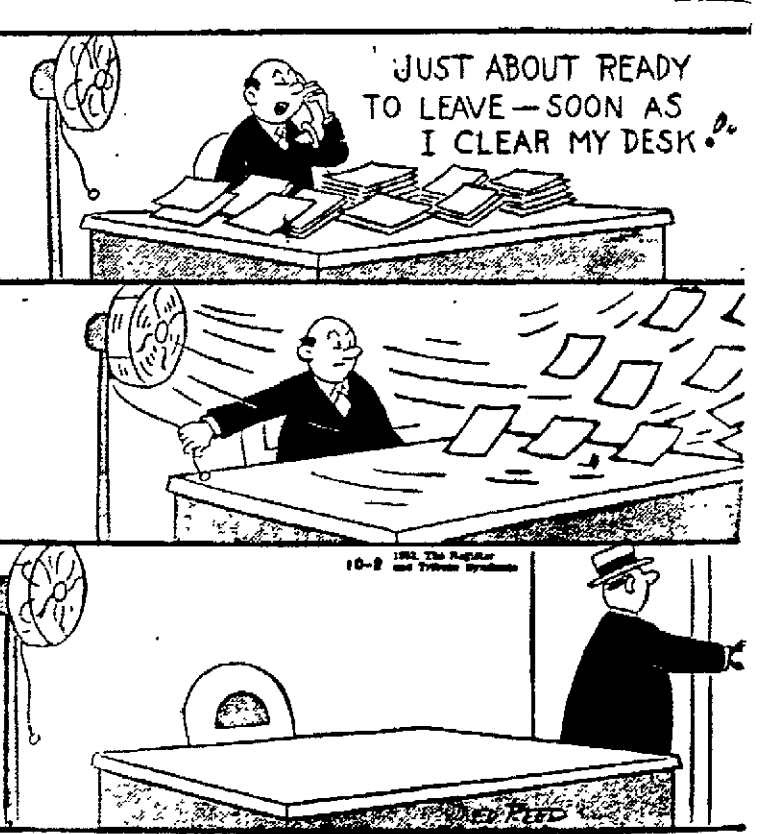

"Last week we took a science hike. We brought back many seeds and even a few minnows taken from the creek. The minnows, however, didn't live too long in the coffee can of water that we had. We learned that if we don't have a good place to keep them, it's better to leave them where they are."

Harold Cramer caught something of an oddity in the Sandhills region near Valentine. A native of Texas, Oklahoma and other southern states, rarely is the horned toad to be found this far north. The head of the reptile has a horn protrusion on each side, body similar in shape to an ordinary toad, but with a row of even points all around and uneven protrusions on its back. The tail and legs are like a lizard's.

Red China Celebrates Fourth Birthday

'Twin-Jet Bombers' Take Part

TOKYO, Friday (AP)—Red China celebrated its fourth birthday in Peiping with a mammoth military parade of guns, tanks and "great twin-jet bombers."

Mao Tze-Tung, the peasant who became ruler of Red China, stood in the great square before the palace of China's ancient emperors and took the salutes and cheers of marching soldiers and workers.

From the rostrum he heard Gen. Chu Teh, commander of Red China's vast armies, read an order of the day proclaiming "a great victory" by "the people of our country" in "resisting American aggression in Korea."

A Peiping broadcast heard here described the military parade of "column on column of infantry, paratroopers, aviators, navy men, motorized troops, armored vehicles, artillery, tanks and armored cars."

Quite Tiny

"Low overhead," Peiping Radio said, "flight after flight of great twin-jet bombers screamed, accompanied by MIG fighters looking quite tiny by comparison."

Although no twin-jet bombers were reported used by the Red Air Force during the Korean War there have been frequent reports of them in Manchuria.

Congratulations poured into Peiping from Iron Curtain countries on this fourth anniversary of the founding of the Communist regime during the collapse of the Nationalists in 1949.

Among "cultural" and "trade" delegations were representatives from France, Cuba, Japan, Vietnam and the British electrical workers trades unions, Peiping said.

June Haver Confirms She's Home To Stay

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—Former Film Star June Haver Thursday confirmed the opinion of Hollywood intimates that she is home to stay.

The little brown-haired dancer who returned Tuesday night from the Xavier, Kan., convent, said she does not believe she ever will have the physical stamina to become a nun.

Miss Haver said on her return that she would like to go back and resume training "if my health will permit."

High Catholic church officials in Kansas City and Los Angeles expressed the opinion Wednesday that she would not return.

Miss Haver went to the convent.

New! Duncan Hines BUTTERMILK Pancake Mix

is America's leading authority on fine food. With his books, newspaper columns, and tours of personal inspection, he has done more on behalf of good eating than any other American.

TO MY TASTE (says Duncan Hines) there are no more delicious pancakes and waffles than those made with buttermilk. That's why, in perfecting my new Pancake Mix, I made use of an old-*fashioned Southern recipe for buttermilk pancakes.

OLD-TIME COOKS knew buttermilk makes better pancakes—but they didn't know why. Our modern research shows buttermilk tenderizes

the gluten in the flour, giving you lighter, tastier pancakes...just as lemon juice makes a steak more tender.

Duncan Hines Buttermilk Pancake Mix is simplicity itself to use because...

The
*Buttermilk is already
IN THE MIX!

ALL YOU DO
is follow the simple directions

...then sit down to the most delicious pancake session you ever enjoyed! For the final touch of perfection, I advise adding a fresh egg to the batter.

Duncan Hines Pancake Mix

makes wonderful waffles,

Crosby Invited To Tax Discussion In His Hometown

Move May Place Him 'On Spot'

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (P)—Gov. Robert Crosby was invited Thursday to visit his hometown of North Platte to discuss tax problems at a public meeting.

A letter was sent to the governor by Bill Owens of North Platte, who drew up a petition which was sent to Crosby earlier asking that he call a special Legislative session to deal with the tax situation.

"The invitation will tend to put Crosby on the spot and if he does not accept, it will be evidence he intends to do nothing about the (assessment) law," Owens said.

"His hometown constituents will write Bob off their list if he does not show up for the meeting," Owens added.

The letter said in part: "You have been quoted as saying that conditions may require you to investigate the matter further next year. However, you know the Legislature does not meet in regular session next year."

"If you plan to call a special session next year, it would seem equally important that you call it now and if it is successful the taxpayers would be saved millions of dollars."

The petition sent Crosby earlier by Owens carried 400 signatures.

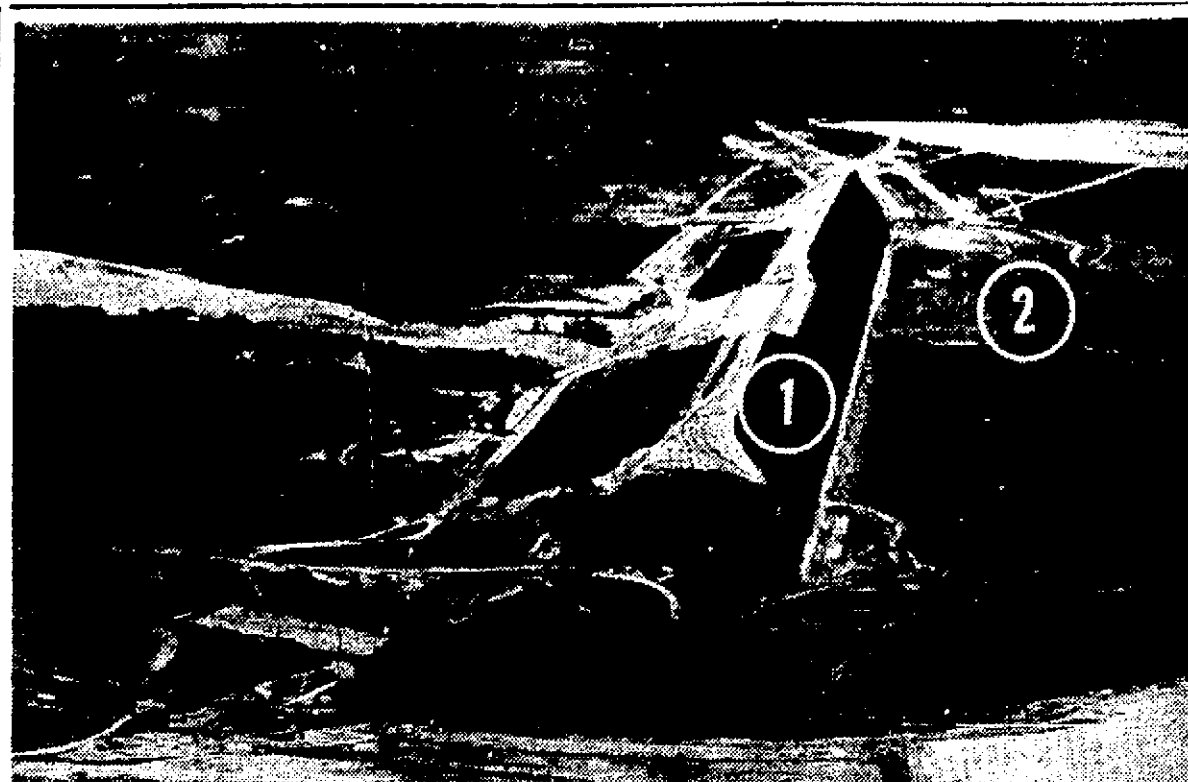

Also invited to the public meeting were Sens. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff and Harry Pizer of North Platte.

Golf Meet To Open Bakers Convention

OMAHA (P)—The two-day Nebraska Bakers Association convention will open next Monday with a golf tournament.

Some 200 delegates from over the state are expected to attend the meeting at which E. E. Kelley Jr., Chicago, president of the American Bakers Association, and William F. Thie, president of the Association of Retail Bakers of America, will be among the speakers.

State Association President Ed Wendelin of Lincoln will be the initial speaker.

Trenton Dam Officially Joins Valley Development Plan

The $23,000,000 Trenton Dam, officially dedicated in ceremonies Thursday, will span the Republican River just west of Trenton in southwest Nebraska. The new structure will provide a large measure of flood protection along the river below the site in addition to storing 865,000 acre feet of water for irrigation purpose. The dam dedication was preceded by a large parade in Trenton. The rock-surfaced upstream side of the dam (figure 1) reaches to a height of 140 feet and will impound waters in a two-mile wide reservoir (figure 2). (Bureau of Reclamation Photo)

PMA Office Men Remain 'In Dark'

Officers of the Nebraska State Production and Marketing Administration office in Lincoln Thursday were still in the dark over the possible effects on their job growing out of the recently announced reorganization of the PMA in Washington.

According to an announcement in Washington, the Secretary of Agriculture has decided upon a plan to set up a large marketing service which would take over much of the duties of the present PMA. The theory of the plan would be to step up an agency to find markets for farm products.

One official said the only word he had of the plan was by way of newspaper accounts. "We haven't had any directive on it from Washington, and don't know exactly how it would work," he said.

Bob Webb, PMA office manager, said no further counties have indicated that they desire drought emergency aid, following the request entered by Hitchcock County.

20 Freed Porkers Head For Movies; Law Gives Chase

OMAHA (P)—Douglas County Sheriff's deputies had a bit of a different task Thursday—rounding up 20 ornery hogs.

The porkers have been at large since Sunday night when a truck driven by Marland Jorgensen of Oakland was in a collision on West Dodge Street. The porkers were dumped on the highway and disappeared.

Twenty took off—some heading for a motel, others for a drive-in theater. Thirteen others, who weren't so brave, stayed by and headed for market.

Of the missing porkers, Chief Deputy Sheriff Gordon Falkenberg said:

"We know they didn't stop to see the feature movie and the motel operator hasn't any guests answering their description."

Housewife Given Mail Fraud Term

OMAHA (P)—Mrs. Donna Ann Bailey, 22-year-old Omaha housewife, received a 30-day suspended jail sentence in Federal Court Thursday after pleading no contest to charges of using the mails to defraud.

Mrs. Bailey, 22, offered no defense to the charge that she promised a soldier she would go to Germany to marry him if he sent her $350, and then failed to do so.

Governor To Explain Situation

By ROY CAMPBELL
Star Staff Writer

TRENTON, Neb.—Gov. Crosby said in Trenton, Neb., Thursday that he soon would begin his letters to North Platte in which he would explain to the best of his ability the state tax picture.

The governor has emphasized throughout his trip to state institutions and in meeting with county officials the responsibilities that must be shouldered by the county when looking at the state's tax picture.

He told Republicans in Kearney, Neb., earlier that the county assessor and the county board of equalization must take greater responsibility in equalizing taxes between classes within the county.

He said he will take his story of the tax picture to as many people as want to hear it and hope that they would understand why taxes this year had to be equalized. He has met a great deal of suggestions for the state sales tax and possible state income tax but he said that many questions are unanswered when dealing with these two forms of taxation.

Omaha Accident Mark Benefits From Series

OMAHA (INS)—The World Series was credited with helping reduce traffic accidents on Omaha streets.

Police traffic inspector Jean Whinnery said streets were almost deserted during the baseball games and only six property damage accidents and no injuries were reported in a 30-hour period ending at noon Thursday.

Champ Lamb Brings $285

OMAHA (AP)—A Southdown, named grand champion lamb of the Ak-Sar-Bon Livestock Show, brought $3 a pound at auction Thursday.

The animal, exhibited by Wesley Elberts of Beaver Crossing, was bought by Wilson & Co., meat packers, for 50 cents under the all-time record paid last year.

The 9-pound lamb brought young 100 percent $285.

Missing from the sale was the reserve grand champion, the Hampshire, shown by Russell Fitch of Overton. The lamb died of shipping fever Tuesday.

The other two Southdowns, which with the grand champion made up the champion pen, sold for 45 cents a pound to Armour & Co. They weighed 160 pounds combined.

Prices for the rest of the 53 lots ranged between 26 cents and 6 cents a pound. The 53 lots averaged 33.7 cents a pound as compared with an Omaha market top Thursday of 20.5 cents.

Most of the lambs were purchased by packers—Wilson, Armour, Swift, and Heimerl, and the Omaha Livestock Exchange and Union Stockyards Co.

Brock Man Is Facing $53,270 Damage Suit

OMAHA (AP)—Nels Muller of Omaha Thursday filed a $53,270 damage action against William McKnight of Brock, Neb. for injuries alleged, received in an accident Sept. 7.

The petition, filed in District Court, alleges negligence on the part of McKnight caused a two-car accident 2 1/2 miles west of Valley on Highway 275. Muller and his wife were hurt in the head-on crash.

Glen Jerman, 45, Beatrice, Is Dead

BEATRICE (Lincoln Star Special)—Funeral services for Glen Jerman, 45, who died at his home here, will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Willard Lampe will officiate and burial will be in Evergreen Home Cemetery.

Survivors besides his wife, Dorothy, include one daughter, Janice, 9, one son, Gary, 5, his mother, Mrs. Nellie Jerman of Beatrice, two brothers and two sisters.

Mrs. Clayton Dies; Wife Of Druggist

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP)—Mrs. W. E. Clayton, 69, wife of a Grand Island druggist, died after an illness of several months.

Mrs. Clayton, who had lived here more than 40 years, was a past president of the women's auxiliary of the Nebraska State Pharmaceutical Association.

Survivors include her husband and two sons, John D. and William G., both associated with their father in the drug business. Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday.

Bladen Minus Water Supply; School Closed

BLADEN, Neb. (Lincoln Star Special)—Bladen is what might well be called a dry town.

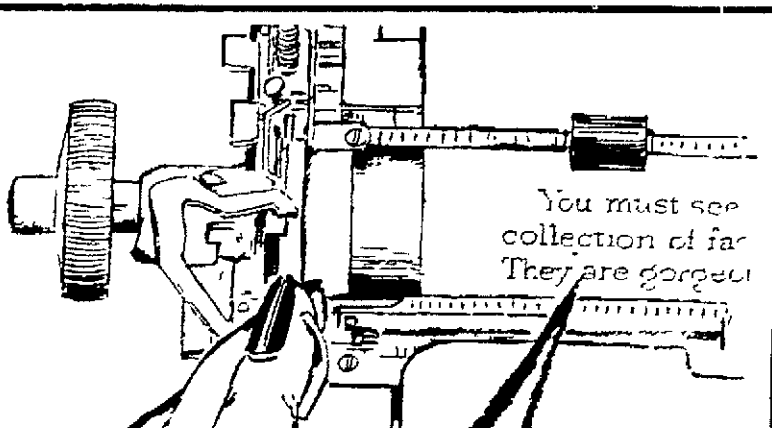

The 285 residents here have been without a municipal water supply since late Tuesday and indications are that service will not be resumed until sometime Friday.

Trouble began Monday when the electric motor of the pumping engine burned out. An auxiliary pump, pumping from an auxiliary well, was put into use.

However, the auxiliary well went dry—catching the Bladen people unaware.

Grey Pickrell, city council member, says school was closed Wednesday and Thursday. Residents are getting water from farmers' wells in the area—“carrying the water in every kind of a container.”

A Hastings firm is repairing the motor of the main pump and it is expected to be reinstalled sometime Friday, Pickrell said.

Fremont Clubs Honor Ex-POW

FREMONT, Neb. (AP)—Sgt. Carl Klevemann of Fremont who spent nearly three years in Communist prisoner of war camp in North Korea, was honored Thursday by six service groups.

Members of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Lions, Optimists, Rotary and Kiwanis joined in presenting the recipient a wrist watch at a luncheon in his honor.

Mayor Milton Elmer presented the watch to Klevemann after which the recipient took part in an informal question and answer period on his experiences in the POW camps.

Dr. E. B. Keisler, president of Central Theological Seminary, was principal speaker at the luncheon. Dr. Paul Todd of Fremont served as master of ceremonies.

Traphagen-Yates Bridal Attendants Have Arrived

There has been nothing but fun and festivity since Miss Jane Traphagen took time out from her career in New York City to return to Lincoln and announce her engagement to Homer Allen Yates Jr., of Norwalk, Conn. Tonight is the pre-nuptial dinner for which the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vance Traphagen will be host and hostess at the University Club—and tomorrow evening, of course, is the wedding.

Adding to all of the excitement has been the arrival of members of the bridal party and we found the matron of honor and the bridesmaids having a moment of relaxation Thursday afternoon at the home of one of the attendants, Mrs. William Kimball. In the picture, (upper left) from left to right, are: Mrs. William Kimball, Mrs. Richard Koch of St. Louis; Mrs. Francis Nagle, Crete; Mrs. Robert Kasmarek, Janesville, Wis., all bridesmaids; and Mrs. Donald Williams of Rocky Ford, Colo., the matron of honor.

Although they are not playing the stellar roles in Saturday's wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Allen Yates of Norwalk, Conn., parents of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. Vance Traphagen seem to be happy about the whole thing. —Here we find the parent foursome having a bit of a gabfest between parties. In the picture, left to right, are: Mrs. Traphagen and Mrs. Yates, seated; and Mr. Traphagen and Mr. Yates. As you know, Homer Allen (Tom) Yates Jr., calls Norwalk, Conn., his home town, but we feel reasonably certain that business is in New York City—since many of his ushers have a New York City address. His brother and best man, William Yates, however, hails from Springfield, Mass., and we learned that one of the ushers is a native of the British Empire—by way of India—but we're not sure enough of his identity to point him out. We do know, however, that Mr. Yates has created quite a

There's No Time Wasted

THERE'S NO "time's a-wastin'" business about Lincoln—There always is something to do—some good reason for doing it, and delightful hosts and hostesses who see that it is done—Sometimes the activity involves guests—more often than not some brides-elect are the incentives for the festivity—and occasionally—as is the case this morning—we have a homecomer who is being welcomed back to her circle of friends—And of course we frequently have travelers—taking off on or returning from trips. . . . BUT NEITHER is there any "time's a-wastin'" business on our newspaper—so we'd better roll up the sleeves and be about our work—Just this moment learned that Mrs. I. D. Beynon arrived Thursday evening from Washington, D. C. for the Traphagen-Yates wedding on Saturday evening—

MENTION of the Robert Edgrens reminds us that someone told us that Mr. and Mrs. Edgren were entertaining a small group of guests at a pre-dinner dance party at their home Saturday evening, preceding the 100 club's first party of the season.

then the Harleys will linger at their Pelican Lake summer home for a longer period—but if they are bad—home will come the Harleys.

WHEN MR. and Mrs. Giles Henkle entertained at dinner on Thursday evening at their home it was to honor Miss Jane Traphagen and her fiancé, Homer Allen Yates Jr., but it also was a courtesy to Mr. Yates's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Allen Yates of Norwalk, Conn., who arrived in Lincoln Thursday afternoon. The guest list, in addition to the families, included Mr. Yates's best man and out of town ushers.

THOUGHT maybe the Harleys—Mr. and Mrs. J. Burks—would be coming home one of these days soon—but we hear that the homecoming is entirely dependent upon hunting season prospects in Minnesota—If they are good—

ALSO HEARD a moment ago that Chief Justice and Mrs. Robert G. Simmons are back in town—Justice Simmons arrived a day or two ago, and Mrs. Simmons was among the Thursday arrivals. You knew, of course, that Justice and Mrs. Simmons had been to Pakistan, India and goodness-knows-where during the summer—but did you know that immediately upon their return to the States they went to California where they visited their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Wear and their family, at Menlo Park. Mrs. Simmons stopped off, en route home from the west coast, for a brief stay with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Simmons Jr., in Scottsbluff.

ALTHOUGH Colonel and Mrs. Myers Cather and their family have been back in Lincoln for a few weeks they have been so busy getting settled in their home that welcome home courtesies were postponed for a while—However Mrs. Cather is to be honored this morning when Mrs. Robert Edgren is a 9:30 o'clock coffee hostess at her home. Only a small group of guests has been invited.

Miss Darlene Goeden, whose marriage to Robert L. Schenman will be solemnized at the Salem Congregational Church at 4:30 o'clock on Saturday, Oct. 31, is to be honored on Monday when Mrs. Wayne Giebelhaue is hostess at a dessert supper. The late-October bride will be a party incentive again on Saturday, Oct. 10, at a personal shower. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Priest and their daughter, Miss Patricia Priest, will be host and hostesses for the 7:30 o'clock affair to which 12 guests have been invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Heumann and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde F. Card, uncles and aunts of the bride-to-be, will entertain in honor of Miss Morgan and her fiancé at a dessert supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Heumann. The party, which will include 16 members of the family, will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Another shower for Miss Morgan will take place on Tuesday evening when Mrs. Charles Carothers (Doris Gillett) and Mrs. William Misko are hostesses at a dessert supper at the home of Mrs. Carothers. Twelve guests have been invited for the 7:30 o'clock party, which will be a hostess shower.

Miss Beverly Blackwell, whose marriage to Keith Skalla of Beatrice will be solemnized at 8 o'clock, Friday evening, Oct. 9th, at the First Christian Church in Council Bluffs, Ia., has chosen the members of her wedding party.

Miss Jo Anne Thomas of Seymour, Ind., will serve Miss Blackwell as maid of honor. The matron of honor is Mrs. Gordon Green of Council Bluffs and the bridesmaids who are Pi Beta Phi sorority sisters of the bride-elect are Miss Jane Aistrophe of Greenwood, Ia., and Miss Sally Jones of Bassett. Completing the list of feminine attendants are Miss Kathy Gilmore, and Miss Eleanor Smith, cousin of the bride-to-be, from Council Bluffs; Mrs. David Rose, Iowa City, Ia., and Miss Diana Merrill of Ida Grove, Ia.

Jack Skalla of Beatrice will be best man for his brother and ushers, who include Delta Tau Delta fraternity brothers of the prospective bridegroom, are Bernard Skalla and Dick Bennett of Beatrice; Raymond Mladovich, Omaha, Martin Mathiesen, Grand Island, and Robert Hasebroock of West Point.

A bride of Friday evening, Oct. 16th is Miss Lynne Morgan, whose marriage to Lewis G. (Bud) Morris will take place at Westminster Presbyterian Church at 8 o'clock. Among the many informal courtesies for this popular soon-to-be-bride is a Saturday morning coffee with Mrs. Stanley Kennedy as hostess. Mrs. Kennedy, who was Miss Marilyn Lehr before her recent marriage, will present Miss Morgan with a one gift shower, and the party will be at 10:30 o'clock at her home. On Monday evening, Oct. 5,

Sunnybank MARGARINE
AT SAFEWAY

Special guests at the monthly meeting of the Lincoln Council of Parents and Teachers, held Thursday afternoon at the Board of Education, were the safety chairmen of the local PTA units in the city, who heard a talk on the need for organizing safety and first aid instructor classes by Lloyd Jenkins, co-ordinator of safety education for the Lincoln schools.

Mrs. E. J. Hahn, Randolph; Mrs. Frank Knott, Randolph; Mrs. Ralph Bauer, Park; Mrs. Dick Hickman, Riley; and Mrs. William Strateman, Saratoga.

Mrs. Herman Siefkes, council president, conducted the meeting and announced National Parent-Teacher Week Oct. 4 to 10. Announcement was also made of plans to honor

Mrs. Fred Easterday, a former council member, who is retiring after 28 years of service with the Lincoln Recreation Board. Mrs. Easterday, who as PTA recreation chairman, helped in the organization of the city recreation board, will be the guest of honor at a luncheon to be held Wednesday noon, Oct. 28, at the Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Charles Hembree opened the council meeting and a report was made by Mrs. Harold Shelly on the summer reading program for school pupils. Approximately 2,220 pupils registered for the program and more than 1,270 children fulfilled the project requirements. Bethany and Huley schools received first prizes for the number of pupils participating, and second place awards went to College View and Willard schools.

A talk on the fund for underprivileged children, one of the PTA Council's projects, was given by Dr. John Thompson, director of health education for the Lincoln schools, and Miss Zora Tennant, co-ordinator for school attendance, spoke on Lincoln's need for low-cost rental housing.

Mrs. Fay Smith, garden chairman, announced that school pupils the past summer completed 780 gardens in the council-sponsored gardening project. Mrs. John Winter, health chairman, urged all PTA members to co-operate in recruiting blood donors in the interest of the Red Cross "gamma globulin for Polio."

Anniversary Honorees

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Fox, 1365 South 35th, were surprise honorees last Saturday evening when members of their family entertained for them on their wedding anniversary at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. McFarland. A highlight of the evening was the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Fletcher of Marysville, Kans., who have been friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fox for more than 50 years.

The family gathering was completed by John C. Fox, Jr., who recently returned home on leave after serving on a navy minesweeper in Korea and Japan. He will leave next week to return to active service and will be stationed at Astoria, Ore.

Attending the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Fox's children and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Daily of Philips, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. McFarland, Claudene and John Paul, and Mr. and Mrs. John C. Fox, Jr. Carolyn and five-month-old twin sons, Patrick Frances and Michael Thomas.

Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Royal V. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Crear, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. Morris, Mrs. Beatrice Danielson, Ronald Stamp, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kendall and James Morris.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. Nebraskans Living Better Than Ever Before Joe and Jane Nebraska have been working hard in recent years making money hand over fist. They boosted the state's income to $12.15 billion in 1952, an all time peak.

The question is: What has it done to them and what are they doing with their money?

A good part of the answer comes from the volume of statistics and the observation of Dr. Edgar Z. Palmer. The quiet, fact-seeking chairman of the Department of Business Research at the University of Nebraska has been professor of statistics since 1946 and special aid to Nebraska business by his illuminating surveys which tell the state how it is doing.

Neither their money nor their work is hurting them, according to Dr. Palmer. In fact, they are enjoying the highest standard of living ever. They can pretty well be classed as all-Americans, as well off as any and better off than some.

They are definitely eating better. They spent $398,000,000 for food in 1952 in contrast with $246,600,000 in 1948. But they are more and more inclined to eat at home. Eating and drinking places over the same years jumped in annual gross only from $91,505,000 to $94,100,000. They dress well but much less formally than they used to. They are strong for slacks, soft shirts and frocks designed more for comfort and prettiness than for cost. Jane is just as apt to show up in slacks or jeans as in a formal while Joe isn't giving the stiff collar people much play. Actually Nebraskans spent less on clothes—$66,500,000 in 1948; $63,300,000 in 1952.

Both Joe and Jane have more leisure time. They spend some of it in pretty new homes that are astfully furnished and chock-full of labor saving appliances—radio, television sets and music makers. Whether they live on the farm or in town it is the same.

They travel a good deal the rest of their spare time, see a lot of the country, enjoy fishing and other recreation.

They are great on higher education, but Joe or Jane, if they are town people, are more apt to be working their way than if they come from a farm. This is quite a reversal due to better farm income and improvement in farming methods. But the farmer isn't spending all of his earnings on educating his children. He has probably paid off the mortgage and he spends a lot on mechanization, soil improvement, water management, fertilizers and other things which improve production.

Contrary to what one sometimes hears, Joe Nebraska doesn't depend much on working for the government. Not counting service in the armed forces, only one in 10 is on the public payroll. That takes in federal, state, county and local.

Twenty-seven out of every 100 are in agriculture. Nineteen per cent work in trade. More and more are going into industry, more than nine out of every hundred now. Believe it or not, Nebraska led the way in per cent of industrial growth between 1939 and 1947. Eleven out of every hundred are working for the utilities and in the service business. The rest are teachers, preachers, lawyers, doctors and the like.

And where do Joe and Jane get their earnings? Farming produces 27 per cent directly, industrial payrolls add another 10 per cent. Trade and services account for 24 per cent. The final 39 per cent comes from varied pursuits, principally professional services, railroading, manufacturing profit and government activity.

County Board Considering Establishing Hospital At Westview Nursing Home

The Lancaster County Board is studying the possibility of establishing a county hospital at the Westview Nursing Home.

Board Chairman Russell Brehm believes it may be possible to have part of the $320,000 anticipated yearly welfare health costs which the county will assume next Jan. 1.

Presently, Westview is operated with funds of the county relief department.

But with additional facilities qualifying it as a hospital or convalescent hospital, Westview could—under federal regulations—house old age assistance recipients.

"Nursing homes get the bulk of assistance department's medical expenses—around $200,000 out of $320,000—so if we're to make any substantial cuts, it will have to come from nursing homes," Brehm said.

A county hospital could take around 50 of the 225 to 250 old age assistance patients now confined in private nursing homes, he said.

Based on savings made at Westview, which has been operated for a year to house county relief clients, Brehm figures a county hospital could be operated with similar savings as compared with private care.

Westview, with ample quarters for 80 or 90 persons, now has about 30 patients living there, according to Brehm. He estimates the large structure could be converted into a hospital for $7,000 to $8,000.

Unemployment Total Unchanged

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Commerce Department reported Thursday that teenagers returning to their classrooms after working for the summer caused a decline of one million in unemployment during September.

However, the department added, unemployment was practically unchanged from the post-war low recorded in August.

Statistics on employment showed that between August and September total non-farm employment dropped from 56,134,000 to 55,044,000.

Unemployment was relatively stationary at 1,246,000 persons—about 2 per cent of all civilian workers.

Suez Agreement Nears

CAIRO (INS) — An Egyptian informant said Thursday that the British and Egyptians in unofficial talks were getting closer to an agreement on proposed British evacuation of the Suez Canal Zone.

Accident Injury Suit

A $25,000 injury suit arising out of a one-car accident has been brought by Ida May Saylor of Lincoln in Lancaster District Court.

Defendants are LaVern Neuman and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Neuman of Ashland.

The plaintiff was a passenger in the car driven by LaVern Neuman which struck a light pole on 48th between Francis and Martin streets on Jan. 26, 1953, about 3:30 a.m., according to the petition. Mr. and Mrs. Neuman are listed as owners of the automobile.

Noted Historian To Speak At NU Art Exhibition

Elizabeth McCausland of New York City, noted art historian and critic, will speak on the topic "The Roots of American Art" at the 25th anniversary exhibition of the Frank M. Hall Collection Sunday at 3:30 at the University of Nebraska Morrill Hall.

She will illustrate her discussion with examples selected from the University's exhibition. Her most recent work was a catalogue-monograph prepared for the Corcoran Gallery of Art in Washington, D. C., which provides a pictorial history of America from 1492 to 1900. This exhibition and monograph were under the auspices of the National Capital Sesquicentennial Commission.

She also has served as special consultant in the preparation of major exhibitions held at the New York State Museum, the Berkshire Museum, the Walker Art Center, and the Springfield (Mass.) Museum of Art.

Heintze Returns; Mum On His Political Plans

State Treasurer Frank Heintze returned to his office Thursday after attending the convention of the National Association of State Auditors, Comptrollers and Treasurers in New York City.

He had no comment on reports he might be considering becoming a candidate for Douglas County Treasurer next year.

Under a state constitutional limitation, the State Treasurer may serve only two consecutive terms in office, and Heintze is now in his second term.

Liquor Revenue For September Shows Hike

Liquor Commission revenue in Nebraska for September was $282,270 compared to $235,163 for the month last year.

The increase over last year was attributed to an upsurge in beer sales as a result of the end of the strike in some breweries. Beer revenue for September this year was $91,875 as compared to $82,288 last year. Total revenue for the first nine months this year is $2,164,881. Last year it was $2,153,907 for the period.

Raschi To Oppose Erskine At Ebbets Field Today

Yanks Hold 2-0 Edge As Teams Go To Brooklyn

By BOB CONSIDINE
NEW YORK (INS) Two soaring home runs into the left field seats struck by the clubs of youthful Billy Martin and Mickey Mantle, broke the backs of the Dodgers Thursday giving the Yanks, a 4-2 victory and a 2-0 lead in the golden anniversary World Series.
The series now moves to Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, with the Yanks prohibitive favorites to win their fifth straight title.
Friday's pitchers will be Vic Raschi for the high and mighty champions and Carl Erskine, knocked out of the box in the first game, for the hapless National Leaguers.
Thursday's two late-inning blasts broke a mystifying spell that Preacher Roe had woven about the champions, a spell that had limited them to two hits and heaped upon them much mortification in front of the Yankee Stadium crowd of 66,786.
Martin's poke in the seventh, with the Dodgers leading Eddie Lopat and the other Yanks by a score of 2-1, barely escaped the frantic glove of Dodger Left-fielder Jackie Robinson, who almost threw himself over the barrier in an effort to intercept it.

Mantle's blast in the eighth, with Hank Bauer on base, was a stirring symbol of the fantastic wristpower possessed by the bubblegum-popping young man from Commerce, Okla.
Roe would give him nothing, but Mantle reached out after a low, outside pitch and hit a tremendous blow 20 rows deep in the sun-splashed left field stands.
Until these grievous blows were struck, this second game of a World Series which will produce a record players' payoff, was a "junk dealers' convention."
For most of the two hour and 42 minutes this game lived, Roe and Lopat dealt a brand of soft stuff that had the vaunted sluggers of both teams swinging so ludicrously the crowd often roared at their ineptitude.
This is the age of the rabbit ball, but it was sacks of rabbit stew which these two venerable southpaws were delivering to the batters Thursday. "Junk" is the accepted word for it in baseball, and it more than lived up to its name.
By contrast with the rambunctious first game of the Series, the second began on a note of frustration. Peeewe Reese pushed one of Lopat's first soggy pitches into the right field corner for a triple, with one out. But Duke Snider lifted daintily to Yogi Berra, and Jackie Robinson completed the job of stranding Peeewe.
The Yanks got a run off Roe in their half of the first, but more by default than vigor. Roe walked three Yanks in that inning and hit another Flies from the bats of Hank Bauer and Berra mired Gene Woodling, first walked, from second to third and third to home.
The Dodgers fought back against Lopat's slippery stuff and finally pinned it down—like a greased pig—in the fourth.
With two away, Gil Hodges singled past Phil Rizzuto. Carl Furillo followed with a sharp single to right. Billy Cox hit a double to left that sounded as if it were a rock. The double scored both runners, putting the Dodgers ahead, 2-1.
But the rally was dead then and there. Roe was the next hitter. He hadn't been on base, even with a walk, since last July 7. A portrait of Whistler's Mother would be a much more menacing figure at the plate.
But in the box, the Preacher had 'em spellbound. Rizzuto's fling doubled to right, which Furillo mishandled into three bases, and Martin's blooper single to right, followed by Rizzuto's sacrifice, had the Preacher in a mild sweat in the second and fourth.
But, mostly, he made the Yanks look preposterous. They didn't hit a home run for an hour or more. They looked like men trying to write their initials on a butterfly, caught in a high wind.
But along came Martin at the speed and got there with the ball. He hit the wire and steel with a great muscular body-blast, leaping as he did.

The ball shot inches above his spread-fingered glove, hit a fan and bounced back. For most of those in the park it appeared that Robinson had blocked the ball and it was still in play.
But Robinson pantomimed that it was a home run by continuing to lean against the fence, though the ball was now resting on the field 15 feet from him.
The score was tied. Roe kicked savagely at the dirt around the mound and quickly retired the side in order. Thanks, in the end, to the finest defensive play of the series to date—Reese's stop and throw of Woodling's slash between third and short.
The Dodgers' were not licked as yet. Hodges' hitless in 21 trips to the plate in the 7-game 1952 Series, made his fifth hit of the current clash with one out in the eighth.
But Lopat worked with the guile of a Merlin on Furillo, who had collected two earlier hits. Furillo's grass-cutter was scooped up by Martin, flung to Rizzuto and thence to First Baseman Joe Collins for the first double play of the series.
It was time for Mickey Mantle.
The stage was perfectly set. Bauer was on first. Mantle had been hitless all day, despite the pleas of the congregation. Roe's first two pitches looked like a stunt flier doing slow rolls. They missed the plate.
So did the next pitch, a screwball that was low and outside. But Mickey didn't miss it. The Yankee bunched stood as a man to greet Mantle on his return to the cave. The Yanks had their 4-2 lead.
They had hit home runs in nine straight World Series games. They had come from behind again. And they were one big step closer to a payoff that will run about $8,000 a head.

These Links Will Seek 11th Win In Series

Northeast Hosts Links Tonight In 13th Intra-City Game

Conquering Heroes Give A Hail

The heroes of Thursday's win over the Dodgers left loose in the Yankee dressing room after the Bombers' 4-2 win over Brooklyn. Left to right are Billy Martin, whose homer tied the score; winning Pitcher Ed Lopat and Mickey

The one game that is always rated the toughest on the schedule for both teams involved—the Northeast-Lincoln High game—is set for O. N. Magee Stadium tonight.
The 13th game of the intra-city series starts at 7:30 p.m.
Those who use comparative scores as a basis of choosing favorites must swing along with Lincoln by a wide margin.
Both the Links and the Rockets have beaten Beatrice handsily. Northeast beat the Orangemen 34-6 at Beatrice and Lincoln upped the count to 52-0 at the Oval the following week. But from here it looks like Lincoln by one touchdown, with these ifs involved.

If the starting Rocket eleven can go all the way against the two-platooning Red and Black Squad.
If triple-threat Billy Fry can hit his stride and offset the running of a fleet of fine Lincoln backs.
If the Rocket line can move faster than the Northeast forwards did last year in losing a 33-0 decision to Lincoln High at the Oval.
Injuries to key players could swing the balance either way. At Lincoln High, Coach Bill Pfeiff and Ed Schwartzkopf were in doubt about the status of three vital men—Fullback Mickey Mattern, Halfback Jack Curtis and Tackle Jerome Roche.

Mattern and Roche were both injured by foot blisters but should make the game. Curtis was still hobbled by an ankle injury.
At Northeast, Ben Galloway and Max Hester listed Larry Cole, outstanding end, in the may-or-may-not category. Both were expected to be in shape to see some action.
The Rockets carry a clean slate into the game with wins over Fremont and Nebraska City as well as Beatrice. In addition to the pasting they gave Beatrice, the Links beat North Platte and lost a close one to Omaha Central.

Both teams had smaller doses of scrimmage than usual during the past week, but both elevens appear to be in good condition for tonight's game.
All car traffic at the game will be routed from Huntington Avenue at 53rd Street North 53rd Street will be blocked off. The change has been made to ease the parking problem and speed up the flow of traffic.

Wahoo Warriors To Visit Viewmen

For the fourth week in a row Tom Gillaspie's College View Hilltoppers face Ak-Sar-Ben Conference opposition.
The Viewmen play Wahoo at College View field tonight. Game time is 7:30 p.m.
The up-and-down Warriors should be up this week, just as the Viewman will be rebounding from a loss to Omaha Westside last week. The two teams should provide onlookers with one of the best games this season at CV field.
End Bill Thierstein, hurt two weeks ago, will be out of action. Back Paul Westbrook, injured at the same time, may see limited action tonight but will not start.

Campy May Be Out; Mantle Given Sign

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Campanella may be through for the Series.
The slugging Brooklyn Dodger catcher indicated strongly Thursday he may miss the remainder of the World Series against the Yankees because of the hand injury he suffered in the opening game.
"What's the use of playing when I can't swing a bat," Campanella groaned. "I don't want to play if I can't do the club any good."
"Right now the hand is hurting like the devil," he said. "It's worse than it was Wednesday. Maybe by Friday it might feel better. I'll see how it feels after I take batting practice Friday. If it's no better, I'll ask Charlie (Manager Charlie Dressen) to put Rube (second string catcher Rube Walker) in my place."
Campanella's batterymates in Thursday's game had some comments about the game too.
"I thought it was a heck of a pitch. I don't see how he hit it. It was way below his knees." It was Elwin (Preacher) Roe, the coon hunter from Ash Flat, Ark., talking and his subject was Mickey Mantle's towering eighth inning home run which gave the New York Yankees their second straight World Series victory.
"It was a changeup screwball," the slender lefthander added. "I had never pitched him one like that before. But I thought it was a good pitch and it went just where I wanted it to go."

Discussing the other disastrous pitch, which Billy Martin hit into the lower leftfield stands in the seventh to tie the game 2-2, Roe had a different observation.
"It was the greatest mistake since they invented buttermilk," he commented dryly.
NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel's managerial gamble paid off Thursday.
He decided to take a chance and flash Mickey Mantle the "hit sign" when the count on him was two balls and no strikes in the eighth inning.
"He got his pitch," said Stengel.
The pitch—described by Mantle as a "low outside change-up or maybe a screwball"—was belted into the left field stands, and Mantle came home behind Hank Bauer with the two big runs that gave the Yankees a 4-2 victory.

There was risk in what Stengel did. In the sixth inning, with the Yankees trailing by one run and Yogi Berra on base, Mantle had a count of three balls and one strike and Stengel told him to let the next pitch go by.

It turned out to be a strike. Then Mantle fled out to left field.
"One bad pitch can decide any game in this Series, and maybe the Series," opined Stengel.
The one real rhubarb of the game came in the second inning, but Stengel made it plain he was making no protest on the decision of Umpire Hank Soar.
Rizzuto, the first man up, looped the ball out to right field. It landed on or near the fence, was fielded badly by Carl Furillo, and Rizzuto, who wound up on third, was given credit for double and an extra base on Furillo's error.

DC 11 Scores Fourth Win

Lincoln Star Special
DAVID CITY — The David City Scouts won their fourth straight game here Thursday night, beating Albion 20-7 in an inter-division tussle between two Central Ten Conference foes.
The Scouts scored twice within five minutes in the first period and coasted thereafter. Bill Peters ran 58 yards to set up the first touchdown, scored by Dick Wood.
Don Irwin crashed over from the one-yard line in the last 15 seconds for the only Albion touchdown. The smash capped a 72-yard march.
ALBION SCORING—TD Wood, 1st quarter; PAT Wood 2 (placement).
DAVID CITY SCORING—TD Irwin, 1st quarter; PAT Irwin 2 (placement).

Placements A Rarity In High School Ball

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Member

What has happened to the extra point in high school football? In the past, when low scores prevailed, the point after touchdown was often as important as the touchdown itself. The extra point could mean the difference between winning and losing, or tying and losing a ball game.

In modern football, where margins of a touchdown or more are the rule, the extra point has faded in importance. Place-kicking is usually limited to kick-offs nowadays, and drop-kickers are almost unheard of. Most teams either run or pass in attempting the conversion.

One reason for this is the fact that unless a team has an unusually expert place-kicker, it just doesn't pay off to spend valuable practice time developing one.

Other teams who may have one or several accurate kickers don't use them. The reason for this is that many coaches would rather crack the line or throw a short pass to gain two yards than chance a placement.

The rigamarole involved in booting a PAT takes plenty of special practice. Still, one of a number of things can go wrong and ruin the play.

First, the center's pass has to be long and much more accurate than an ordinary snapback. If the pass is true, the holder must put the ball exactly in place and the kicker must hit his mark right on the nose.

Even then, the kick can be blocked easily as only nine men are trying to defend against eleven. The defenders must block high to keep defensive backs from hurdling the line and blocking the kick. When they do that, there is the possibility that submerging guards may upset the apprear.

Thus many teams rely on the

Kahl, Wieggers Top NWU Statistics

Cliff Kahl and Rolfe Wieggers, Coach Roy B. Robertson's offense-minded halfbacks, today continued to pace the Plainsman gridiron machine to a net rate of 329.43 yards gained per game.

The Big Springs sophomore speedster with a personal total of 134.3 yards per contest, and Wieggers, the junior service veteran with 63.7 per game, have led the Plainsmen to a grand offensive total of 988 yards in three games in which they have outscored their foes 61 to 33.

A strange factor in this year's statistical report is the low passing yardage. Feared as an aerial outfit a year ago and with ace chucker Marvin Macy fortified by the accurate flipping arm of Wieggers, the Methodists have completed but 10 of 27 tosses this season for a net gain of 150 yards.

Wieggers, who has been called upon to kick 10 times, has responded with a 37.4 average. Kahl's six touchdowns and 36 points give him better than half of his team's scoring output.

Charles Lanik has booted seven out of nine points by placement. The Plainsmen won 45 first downs, their opponents 30.

line plays and pass plays they must practice anyway. But sometimes they take the attitude that the PAT is unimportant.

In 12 games this year, Lincoln's four high schools have scored 257 points, an average of over 21 per game. The Capital City preppers have scored 39 touchdowns and converted only 19 times.

Leading the conversion parade is Northeast with seven conversions on 10 touchdowns. Tackle John Rohrig, a top-notch place-kicker, is the reason for that.

Rohrig has converted after six Rocket touchdowns. He had one kick blocked and has missed two. Teammate Bill Fry booted the other Northeast PAT.

Only other place-kicker in the city is College View Guard Marv Hoy, who has hit one of three.

Lincoln and Cathedral run their conversions attempts. The records:

Academy	10	7	70%
Cathedral	11	5	45%

Southern Cal Tabbed Tip Indiana Hoosiers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's football team remained a firm favorite to make it two in a row over a Big Ten invader when the Trojans met Indiana tonight in Memorial Coliseum.

The Trojans originally were tabbed as 27 point favorites, but the critics, perhaps skeptical of Trojan success against the Hoosiers' deceptive split "T" style of attack, cut the figure by seven and more points.

Victors over a stubborn Minnesota team last Saturday, USC will shoot its No. 1 eleven against the visitors, leading off with Junior Aramis Dandoy at the key tailback spot in the Michigan-patterned single wing offense.

Indon Crow, recuperating from a leg injury, starts at right halfback and presumably will bolster the Trojan defense. Harold Han opens at fullback and George Bozanic, whom many rate the best all-purpose back in the combination, goes at quarterback.

Martinez Seeks Third Straight Win Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Vince Martinez, a full-time fighter now, goes after his third straight victory tonight against Vinnie D'Andrea of New York in a ten rounder at the St. Nicholas Arena.

The handsome, 24-year-old Paterson, N. J., welterweight is a 3-1 favorite. The bout, starting at 10 p.m., EST, will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) coast to coast.

Since losing to Chico Vejar and Danny Giovannelli, Martinez has quit trying to work and fight. He has given up his job as a draftsman to concentrate on a boxing career.

A boxer-puncher, Martinez had a tendency to fade in the late rounds in the past. He stopped Billy Andy in six rounds and outpointed Joey Bishop in his last two starts to make his record 29-3. He has 16 knock-outs to his credit.

'U.S. In Danger Of Taking On Complexion Of Reds'—Acheson

Use Of 'Totalitarian' Methods In Fight On Communism Is Attacked

NEW YORK (INS) — Ex-Secretary of State Dean Acheson attacked Thursday night what he called "the use of totalitarian methods ostensibly to fight Communism" and said the U.S. is in real danger of taking on the complexion of its Red enemy.

In his first major address since he left office last January, Acheson did not mention any persons in the Eisenhower administration or the GOP congress by name.

But he declared: "Each day presents too many examples of callousness, cynicism, indifference to the values of truth, fairness, restraint, free thought, free expression, free inquiry. They occur in many ways and at many levels in our national life. At the lowest level they appear in the use of totalitarian methods ostensibly to fight Communism."

Acheson spoke at a dinner in his honor at which he received the Woodrow Wilson award for "meritorious service to the cause of liberal thought, public welfare and peace through justice." Former President Harry S. Truman was a previous winner of the award.

Acheson strongly urged that the administration and the public at large do nothing to alienate the nation's allies.

He declared: "... Never more than at present is the preservation of the (free world) coalition so essential. To sustain it and strengthen it must be the foundation of our foreign policy. The most unforgivable of mistakes would be to falter in a policy just as developments prove its rightness and success...

"The leadership of a coalition of free peoples requires that the purposes and policies put forward are broad enough to embrace the interests of the whole group..."

Acheson said one of the dangers facing the U.S. is what the cold war struggle may do to the nation. He added: "We are in real danger of taking on the face of our adversary."

G. H. PENSTONE

Ag Solicitor Office Here To Be Closed

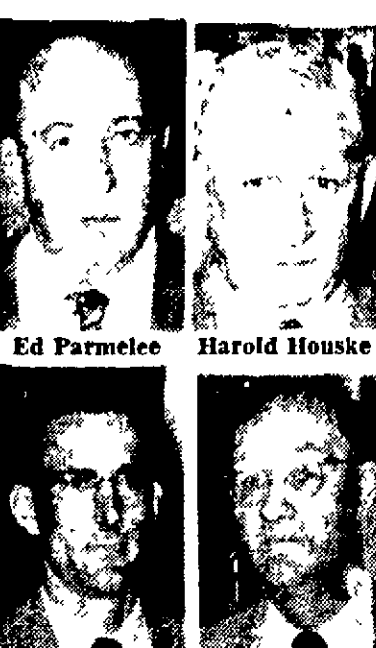

The Lincoln office of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's regional solicitor will be closed in the near future in an administration economy move that will concentrate most of the office's duty in Kansas City. G. H. Penstone, head of the office, announced the directive Thursday, adding that none of the seven attorneys on the Lincoln staff would be dropped, but that few, if any, of the secretarial and stenographic force would follow the office to Kansas City due to deep rooted connections in Lincoln.

The office has long served the Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, and Iowa area, giving legal assistance to the Farmers, Coal, and Cattle Corporation, Farm price support activities, REA, and the SCS.

Penstone said the removal would not impair the service in the area but would effect administrative savings by its relocation in the Commodities Credit Corporation's Kansas City building.

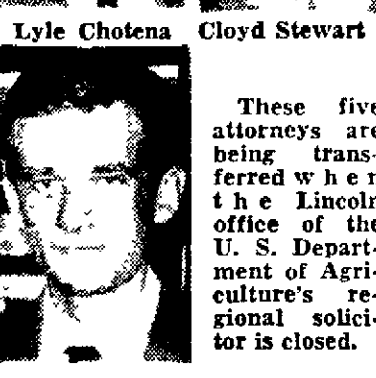

"Since most of our work has been with the CCC and the PMA and has largely been concentrated in Kansas, service from Lincoln has entailed a good deal of travel expense," Penstone explained.

The Lincoln office is in the

Lyle Chotena

Rudger building at 134 South 12th.

Besides Penstone, the removal order will affect six attorneys, Cloyd L. Stewart, George R. Springborg, Ed M. Parmelee, Lyle A. Chotena, Edward S. Chambers and Harold S. Houske, and secretarial and stenographic aides, Shirley A. Bell, Ruth Coder, Lydia M. Fifer, Beverly M. Morey, Valerie Papke, Phyllis Rzesutarski and Helen M. Simmons.

The annual payroll amounts to about $75,000 a year. Penstone said Springborg would be placed in charge of a branch office at St. Paul, Minn., with the dropping of one of its present three-member staff and that Chotena would be transferred to the Denver office as a legal aide to REA.

Penstone spoke feelingly of his seven-year stay in Lincoln saying, "I think the entire staff shares regret in leaving such a pleasant city."

15th AF Commander Sees 'Fine' Future For Lincoln Base

While disappointed over some delays in construction, Maj. Gen. Walter C. Sweeney, commander of the 15th Air Force, feels that the Lincoln Air Base, when completed, will be "an exceedingly fine installation."

Headquartered at March Air Force Base, Riverside, Calif., Gen. Sweeney toured the Lincoln base on a routine inspection of progress being made. The Lincoln base is in the 15th Air Force.

The general made the Lincoln trip in a KC-97 air refueling plane. Lincoln Base Commander Col. Ervin Wursten stated that two squadrons, approximately 40 ships, of the KC-97s will be stationed here when the field is completed.

C. H. Karnes Dies

Charles Henry Karnes, 89, 4530 Adams, died Thursday afternoon at a local hospital.

Surviving are his wife, Eunice A.; a brother, Michael of Merna, Neb., and two sisters, Mrs. Belle Cooper of Oklahoma and Mrs. Georgia Lindley of Broken Bow, Neb.

Zella Sears Rites Will Be Saturday

Funeral services for Zella Georgia Sears, 72, 1235 So. 13th, will be at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Roper & Sons, the Rev. Gordon Schroeder officiating.

Miss Sears, a resident of Lincoln since 1908, died Wednesday.

Born on a farm near Salem, Neb., she moved with her family to Peru and was graduated from Peru Normal School in 1902.

Miss Sears taught school at Rushville for six years before she and her sister, the late Ina Sears, moved to Lincoln.

She was a member of the Peru Baptist Church and a 50-year member of the Eastern Star at Peru.

Surviving are a brother, Nelva O. of Lincoln; three nieces, Mrs. William Secoy, County Line, Okla., Mrs. Gladys Sopher of Colorado and Mrs. Maxine Shestak of Oregon, and two nephews, Francis Sears of Carter, Okla., and Sterling Sears of Ameetulsee, Wyo.

Burial will be at Peru with graveside services conducted by OES 58.

Hadi Going To Gallows

Farouk Aid Guilty Of High Treason

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Ex-Premier Ibrahim Abdel Hadi, who rose to power and riches under King Farouk I, was sentenced Thursday to die on the gallows for "high treason and conspiracy with a foreign power against the security of the state."

A special three-man court, set up by President Gen. Mohamed Naguib's revolutionary government in mid-September, pronounced the sentence on the 57-year-old former Saadist Party leader.

The court condemned Ahmad Mohamed Awad, an Egyptian electrician formerly employed by the British garrison in the Suez Canal Zone, to death by hanging on similar charges of treason and conspiracy.

Plot Charged
High officials declared last month that there was a plot, inspired from abroad, to overthrow the government and restore Farouk to the throne he lost July 26, 1952.

The foreign power has never been publicly identified.

Hadi and Awad were the first to be tried among about two dozen persons rounded up for hearings before the court, headed by War Minister Abdel Latif Boghdady. There is no appeal from the sentences, but they are subject to the approval of Naguib's revolutionary council, the governing power.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 6. If the number is less than 6, add them. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

YANKEE STADIUM... If the Dodgers don't win this series they may be in L. A. before Bill Veck... with all expenses paid by disgruntled citizens of Brooklyn.

My suggestion is the Yankees be used to pace the league next year and be retired after the Fourth of July.

CENTREVILLE, Md. (AP) — Farm experts say if a sow in these parts has a litter of seven she's battling about average, and 12 is something of a home run in the pig leagues. But a Chester White sow on the nearby farm of James Simpler made a real hog of herself. She had 22 piglets. Mother and potential pork-chops were reported doing fine.

TEHERAN, Iran (AP) — Five men and a woman who ran a correspondence school for Communist saboteurs are in jail, perhaps because they paid insufficient attention to lesson No. 4. Teheran police raiders nabbed them while they were wrapping bundles of pamphlets giving detailed instructions on:

- 1—How to obtain explosives;
- 2—Where to buy weapons;
- 3—Sabotage techniques;
- 4—How to escape from a house surrounded by security forces.

TB Stigma Still Strong; 1,000 Refuse Treatment

By ROY CAMPBELL
Star Staff Writer

KEARNEY—Joe and Deborah are brother and sister, four and five years old, and both have tuberculosis.

Blue-eyed and with blond hair, they have a lot of spunk, like kids their age always have, but the stigma of having TB will always be with them, as long as society thinks the way it does.

When they entered the State Hospital for Tuberculosis at Kearney, each had well advanced cases of the dread disease. But with the aid of much rest and science's miracle drugs, plus their youthful and natural ability to get well in a hurry, both will be released soon.

But Joe and Debbie were lucky. The disease was arrested in time for them to be cured. And their parents wanted them to be cured.

But the stigma of people having TB sets hard on society. Because of this there are today at least 1,000 Nebraskans who know they have the disease, but refuse to enter a hospital for treatment. On top of the stigma, however, there also is the fact that most people don't want to lose the time they would spend living in a hospital.

Dr. William Nutzman says he knows there are 1,000 who have tuberculosis and refuse to enter a hospital to have it cured. But there is no law to force them to enter a hospital. And meanwhile, these people will be transmitting the disease to others.

Public ignorance is also a factor. Most people believe at least two years are needed to cure TB. However, the average time required to cure the disease is about nine months, according to Dr. Nutzman.

One of the consoling things in the hospital is that the people who run it, even Dr. Nutzman, were once TB patients themselves. Dr. Nutzman himself entered the hospital in 1931 after he finished his internship at Omaha. He'd contracted the disease after examining three patients who had TB. When he finished his hospitalization at Kearney, the doctor stayed on and three years ago became superintendent of the institution. Others, including technicians and general help, have the same experience. And there is a kindred worker in the hospital in 10 feeling among them. Dr. Nutzman related to Gov. Robert on the job.

Catholic Meeting Will Draw 1,000

NORFOLK, Neb. (P)—One thousand women are expected in Norfolk next Tuesday for the annual convention of the Omaha Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women.

Archbishop Gerald T. Bergan of Omaha, will celebrate mass at 9 a.m. at a Sacred Heart Church and speak in the afternoon.

Other talks will be given by the Rev. Edward O'Donnell, Blair; Mrs. Richard T. Seidel, St. Paul; and Msgr. John S. Juricek, Omaha.

Mrs. Edwin Cassem, Omaha, will give the nominating committee reports on institutes.

Quick Justice
LAWRENCE, Mass. (AP)—Four youths, tossing a stuffed dummy into a roadway to frighten the wits out of motorists, flung it once too often. It landed in front of a police cruising car. The boys, brought into court on delinquency charges, were given a stern lecture and placed on probation.

Decker Will Speak At G.I. Ceremonies

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (P)—A ground-breaking ceremony will take place Sunday afternoon at the site of Grand Island's new $2½ million Senior High School.

The principal address will be given by Freeman B. Decker, state superintendent of public instruction. Dr. F. E. Henzlik, dean of the University of Nebraska Teachers College, will bring greetings from the university. Acting Chancellor John Selbeck was unable to accept an invitation to attend the ceremony because of a previous engagement.

Floyd M. Nicholas, president of the Board of Education, will be master of ceremonies.

Liquor Board Requests List Of Shareholders

The State Liquor Commission said Thursday it will ask all corporations holding Nebraska licenses to supply a list of its shareholders and the amount of stock they own in the concern.

Chairman Tal Conrad pointed out that Nebraska law says that if any individual holds more than 25 per cent of the shares of a liquor corporation that individual "must have all the qualifications" of a person licensed to sell liquor or beer.

Repeat Performance
CINCINNATI (P)—The Rev. H. E. Armocost, retired Methodist minister, recently celebrated the 60th anniversary of his admission into the ministry in an unusual way. He delivered the sermon he preached as a candidate to the ministry. Entitled "Not Part, But All," he delivered it in the chapel of the Methodist Home for the Aged.
